INTRODUCTION

"Do not get lost in a sea of despair. Be hopeful, be optimistic. Our struggle is not the struggle of a day, a week, a month, or a year, it is the struggle of a lifetime. Never, ever be afraid to make some noise and get in good trouble, necessary trouble." Late Rep. John Lewis

The fight for labor rights justice has a long track record in history which shows that many of the roots of the problems we face today can be traced back to the early 1800s. The labor movement in the United States and internationally grew out of the need to protect the common interests and wellbeing of workers as well as making sure that workplaces are safe.

Throughout history, labor unions and organized strikes were created and conducted to protest against low wages, wage cuts, dangerous work conditions, poor living conditions, lack of proper food, lack of proper medical attention and a feudal domination of their lives from the capital class. Movements such as the rebellion of 1877 in West Virginia, the 1912 "Bread and Roses" strike in Massachusetts, the Great Flint Sit Down Strike of 1936-1937, and the farmworker movement demonstrated how large corporations and wealthy business owners have used their power to influence US and international policies to expand their profit over people's labor. For example, in 1942, the US and Mexico signed "The Bracero Program " which allowed nearly 4.6 million Mexican workers to enter the US temporarily to work on farms, railroads and in factories until 1964 to solve World War II labor shortages. However, this program proved to be exploitative; it undercut wages and was utilized to break strikes led by farmworkers and to impede union organizing.

To this day, the exploitation of labor performed by immigrants has not ceased. In fact, it's become normalized to pay immigrants detained in private, for-profit prisons, like those run by The GEO Group, $1 dollar per day for an 8-hr shift. Compare this to George C Zoley, CEO of The GEO Group, who made $11,836,480 in total compensation in 2021. These big corporations are making billions of dollars in profit a year at the expense of our sufferings, preventing us from being with our families, giving us humiliating labor wages, really bad medical treatment, and high cost for essential necessities including phone calls and poor quality commissary. The undignified treatment by the whole GEO administration chain-of-command has gotten us to the point where we draw the line and say "enough is enough".

Though exercising our freedom of speech may bring consequences in detention such as being blacklisted and sent to solitary or hostile environments created by guards to divide us, we must create the energy, persistence, and be an inspiration for others, following the footsteps of the leaders detained in Tacoma, Washington who managed to make a big impact on GEO. None of the labor movement achievements thus far would have happened without the effort, organization and advocacy of our leader brothers and sisters who came before us. We must look to the past not only for inspiration, but for the tools we need to continue the fight. As late Congressman John Lewis stated, this struggle is a struggle of a lifetime and we must organize to put up a fight for justice and our freedom.

LABOR HISTORY IN THE UNITED STATES

The freedom of workers to organize is widely recognized as a fundamental human right across the world. In the U.S., this right is protected by the U.S. Constitution and U.S. law. Additionally, California law explicitly protects workers who participate in organizing and work stoppages under California Labor Code section 923.

For centuries, unions have fought for—and worked to strengthen—the humane standards that protect and uplift Americans today. These essential laws and programs include child labor laws, antidiscrimination laws, health and safety laws, and the federal minimum wage.

Labor organizing benefits all workers. It has existed in the U.S. and California for years. (https://www.laccd.edu/DHLI/Documents/Resources/CA_US_Labor_History_Timeline.pdf). For example, as early as 1849, carpenters in San Francisco and Sacramento, California held a successful strike for increased wages. A few years later, in 1863, the San Francisco Trades Union formed to support a tailors' strike. The first recorded California farmworker strike occurred in 1903 in Oxnard. Importantly, during the 1800's, immigrant workers faced racial labor representation barriers. However, the Oxnard Strike of 1903 (the first successful interracial strike) broke these barriers, inspiring future multiethnic labor organizing. This became significant in the nation's history of strengthening protections for laborers. (<https://www.chicagohistory.org/wp-content/uploads/2021/02/Oxnard3.pdf>).

By joining together, working people continue to transform not just their workplaces but sectors and communities. Here are a few recent examples:

Familias Unidas por la Justicia (FUJ):
Boycotting Berries to Protect Farmworkers.

Eliminating Below-Minimum Wages For Farmworkers

In 2017, Familias Unidas por La Justicia (FUJ) and Sakuma Brothers Berry Farm, one of the Pacific Northwest's largest berry growers, signed a collective bargaining agreement that ensures good wages for the more than 500 immigrant farmworkers who harvest berries at the farm. Through strikes, informational pickets, and other efforts, FUJ gained national support for its successful efforts to change a host of practices at the farm, including 12-hour-plus workdays. Hunger and Labor Strikes in Northwest Detention Center in Tacoma, Washington

In 2017, detained immigrants went on hunger strike to protest the conditions and extremely low wages at the for-profit Northwest Detention Center in Tacoma, Washington. Hunger strikers demanded better food, hygiene, and medical care within the prison owned by GEO. They also launched work stoppages to protest the fact that they were paid only $1 a day to cook, to clean, and to do laundry necessary to keep the prison running. A lawsuit was filed against GEO for violating Washington's minimum wage law, and a jury agreed that GEO was failing to pay adequate wages to detained leaders.

Teachers Strike for Better Schools and Fair Pay

In February 2018, teachers and school employees in West Virginia engaged in a statewide strike to demand fairer wages and better teaching and learning conditions for students. After shutting down schools for nine days, educators received a 5% pay raise. The strike in West Virginia, led by teachers Emily Comer and Jay O'Neal, inspired strikes around the nation. The leaders encouraged teachers in other states: "We told them: 'If we can do it, anyone can.'" (<https://www.politico.com/interactives/2018/politico50/emily-comer-jay-oneal/>).

Organizers Form the First Amazon Union

Chris Smalls led a walkout at the start of the pandemic in 2020 to protest working conditions at the Staten Island, New York Amazon warehouse where he worked. He was fired the same day. Amazon claimed he had violated quarantine and safety measures. But he said he was fired in retaliation for his activism. An Amazon lawyer described him as "not smart," which only motivated him to create the first union in Amazon history in the U.S. "Amazon doesn't become Amazon without the people," Chris Smalls said. "And we make Amazon what it is."

Detained Leaders at Mesa Verde (MV) and Yuba County Jail (YCJ) Host Strikes

In July 2020, detained leaders at MV and YCJ held strikes demanding fairer wages and better food, hygiene, and medical care. Detained leaders announced, “Mesa Verde runs off of our labor. We are the ones who prepare and serve the food, who clean the bathrooms and the dorms. We are paid $5 per week for our official jobs, and the rest we do for free. We will not work and we will not collaborate with GEO. We refuse to make it easier for you to continue unnecessarily caging and murdering us.”
(<https://www.centrolegal.org/undocumented-immigrants-held-in-two-different-detention-facilities-host-strikes-protesting-inaction-from-state-leaders-as-covid-19-spreads/>).

By exercising your right to organize, you are participating in a collective fight that has existed since the 1800s and continues to make an important impact today. Your activism is historical, powerful, and meaningful.

IMPORTANT ACTORS THAT WILL BE DISCUSSED IN THIS HANDBOOK

Who is The GEO Group, Inc. (GEO)?

GEO is a private prison company paid by the federal government to imprison people. GEO made over 2.2 billion dollars in 2021. GEO does not have power to release people from detention.

GEO does not have a role in bond hearings or immigration proceedings. GEO is in charge of disciplinary hearings. They also make decisions on where to house someone, and answer grievances.

*This also applies to other private corporations such as MTC and Core Civic.

U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement

Who is Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE)?

ICE is a federal law enforcement agency within the Department of Homeland Security (DHS). Founded in 2003 (yes, very recent!) ICE decides release request decisions. They also can decide grievance appeals for people who fear retaliation. This agency is also the opposing counsel in bond hearings and immigration proceedings.

Who is the Department of Homeland Security (DHS)?

The United States Department of Homeland Security (DHS) is the U.S. federal executive department responsible for public security. To be an "executive" department means that it is under the President's power, which is why DHS policies will often change from president to president.

Who is a Deportation Officer (DO)?

A deportation officer is an employee under ICE. They arrest, transport, detain and remove undocumented individuals. DO's do not have the power to make any decisions in court.

What is Immigration Court?

Immigration Court is the entity in which immigration judges conduct removal proceedings, where they decide if a person can stay in the US or will be deported. They also conduct bond hearings.

What is the role of an Immigration Judge (IJ)?

An Immigration Judge may grant/reject any type of immigrant relief/benefit. The IJ makes the final decision at the Immigration Court level.

CONTINUATION . . .

What is the PBNDS?

The PBNDS is the Performance-Based National Detention Standards. This is the manual that ICE created for detention standards across the country.

Who is Congress?

It is the legislature of the federal government in the United States. It is composed of the House of Representatives and the Senate. Congress also funds ICE. The Congressional House of Representatives can help play a role in a person's release from immigration if there's political will. We encourage you to investigate who your representative is.

What is the CA Department of Industrial Relations (DIR)?

DIR administers and enforces California laws governing wages, hours and breaks, overtime, retaliation, workplace safety and health, apprenticeship training programs, and medical care and other benefits for injured workers. Cal OSHA, an agency of the DIR, is responsible for investigating complaints about health and safety at worksites.

What is the U.S. Department of Labor (DOL)?

Formed in 1913, the U.S. DOL is another federal executive department responsible for enforcing federal labor standards and occupational (workplace) safety, and promoting workers' well-being. The DOL enforces many laws, including the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA), which establishes minimum wage standards and overtime pay, and the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970, which regulates the safety and health conditions employers are required to maintain and is administered by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA), an agency of the DOL.

ASSERTING YOUR RIGHTS USING THE PBNDS

SECTION 1: THE GREIVANCE SYSTEM
SECTION 2: RIGHTS AGAINST RETALIATION
UNDER THE PBNDS

THE GRIEVANCE SYSTEM

GRIEVANCE

PURPOSE - To empower individuals inside immigration detention to advocate for their living conditions to improve. The section will also help those inside understand the process of the grievance procedure.

Remember: retaliation for using the grievance process is prohibited by the PBNDS!

What is a grievance?

A formal way to exercise one's rights through filing a document explaining your complaints and seeking what you want to change or what you want to accommodate.

Types of grievances

There are two types of grievances:

Informal	Formal
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> A type of request where you communicate (verbally) to the facility or administration to the staff available; does not include documentation Does not go to the higher ups, complaint remains with staff Detainee is free to bypass informal grievance process at any point and proceed directly to the formal grievance stage 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Filing a document that's given a case number with what you want to change or bring to staff attention Helpful Tip: Cite the PBNDS! Everything reported under this case number is documented this goes through 3 levels (1st level grievance officer, 2nd level grievance appeal board, 3rd level appellate review)

The Three (3) Levels of the Formal Grievance Process

Staff Misconduct Grievance

Detainees can file a staff misconduct grievance that will follow the same 3 steps mentioned above and can also send a copy of the grievance to the Office of Inspector General for simultaneous investigation. FAX 202-254-4297

Retaliation is prohibited for filing any type of grievance mentioned above (see PBNDS 6.2(V)(G))**

Getting a copy of your grievance

According to the PBNDS, you have a right to a copy of your grievance disposition within five days. PBNDS 6.2 (V)(D)

Appealing directly to ICE

According to the PBNDS, you have a right to appeal directly to ICE ERO if you are not satisfied with the facility's response, OR if you fear retaliation from the facility.

The form is titled "GOLDEN STATE ICE DETAINEE GRIEVANCE FORM". It includes fields for "CASE #", "Detainee ID Number", "Detainee NAME (Positivo de Análisis)", "Date Filed (Date)", "Detainee Signature (Firma)", and "Date Grievance is Received". A handwritten statement of grievance is visible, dated April 25, 2021, describing a grievance against a staff member.

GEO and ICE's Disciplinary System

KNOW YOUR RIGHTS

PURPOSE - To empower people in immigration detention by providing a guide to GEO's and ICE's disciplinary systems and information on your rights in the disciplinary process.

ABOUT THIS SECTION - As a reminder, GEO is a private prison company paid by the federal government (The Department of Homeland Security or DHS) to imprison people in their custody. GEO has the responsibility to provide for the needs of the individuals in their custody. GEO must also strictly abide by ICE's Performance-Based National Detention Standard (PBNDS). Thus, this section starts with providing an outline of GEO's disciplinary system, which must be in accordance with ICE's PBNDS. The section will also discuss your rights at each step of GEO's disciplinary process and finally it explains when ICE can get involved in the disciplinary process.

GEO'S DISCIPLINARY SYSTEM

GEO Supervisory Rank:
Before we begin discussing
GEO's disciplinary process,
it's important to understand GEO's
supervisory ranking to know who you need to speak to in order to assert your rights at each step of
GEO's disciplinary process.

Facility Administrator
(also known as Warden)

Assistant Facility Administrator
(also known as Assistant Warden)

Chief of Security

Lieutenant

CONTINUATION . . .

GEO's Disciplinary System Steps:

Step One: GEO rule violation is reported

When a GEO rule violation is reported (also known as a "write-up"), an investigation will begin within 24 hours of the time the violation is reported. PBNDS 3.1(V)(E)(1). This investigation is done by a GEO disciplinary committee. PBNDS 3.1(II)(10). Typically the disciplinary committee is a GEO Lieutenant. The GEO disciplinary committee is responsible for further investigating and making a decision about the incident and may impose minor sanctions or refer the matter to a higher level disciplinary panel, typically a GEO Chief of Security. PBNDS 3.1(II)(10).

What are your rights during the investigation process?

1. You have a right to have this investigation completed without unreasonable delay, unless there are exceptional circumstances for delaying the investigation. PBNDS 3.1(V)(E)(3). Exceptional circumstances means something out of the ordinary or unexpected.

2. You have a right to have the incident report investigated objectively and impartially, ordinarily by a person of supervisory rank. PBNDS 3.1(II)(6). The investigating officer shall have no prior involvement in the incident, as either a witness or officer at the scene. PBNDS 3.1(V)(E).

3. You have a right to remain silent at every stage of the disciplinary process. PBNDS 3.1(V)(E)(2).

4. You have a right to have the facility record personal observations and other potentially material information about the incident. PBNDS 3.1(V)(E)(7).

5. You have a right to have the facility prepare a factual report of the investigation including the location of any physical evidence. PBNDS 3.1(V)(E)(8).

6. You have a right to have the facility advise you in writing of your rights in the language you understand, and to have translation or interpretation services provided, as needed. PBNDS 3.1(II)(8).

7. You have the right to receive a copy of the incident report and notice of charges immediately after the conclusion of any investigation. PBNDS 3.1(V)(E)(4).

CONTINUATION . . .

Step Two: Written statement is issued

After the conclusion of the investigation, if the GEO disciplinary committee, typically a GEO Lieutenant, refers the matter to a higher level disciplinary panel, typically GEO Chief of Security or Facility Administrator, you will receive a written statement of the charges and specific rules allegedly violated, and you will have notice of a disciplinary hearing. PBNDS 3.1(V)(E)(4).

What are your rights throughout the disciplinary process?

- You have the right to remain silent at every stage of the disciplinary process, PBNDS 3.1(V)(E)(2), and to have the facility advise you in writing of your rights in the language you understand. PBNDS 3.1(II)(8).
- You have the right at all steps of the disciplinary process, to have accurate and complete records maintained. PBNDS 3.1(II)(16).

Step Three: Disciplinary hearing is held

You have the right to a disciplinary hearing which is conducted by a disciplinary panel, typically GEO Chief of Security or Facility Administrator. The disciplinary panel is responsible for conducting formal hearing on incident reports referred from investigations and may impose higher level sanctions. PBNDS 3.1(V)(H).

If you give written consent, the hearing can be held in less than 24 hours after the “write up” or “incident report” is referred to the disciplinary panel, typically GEO Chief of Security or Facility Administrator. PBNDS 3.1(V)(F)(2). However, if you need more time to gather evidence for your hearing, you can refuse to consent; in this case, the disciplinary hearing will be held no later than seven days, excluding weekends and holidays, after the violation. PBNDS 3.1(V)(F)(2).

What happens at the disciplinary hearing?

- The disciplinary panel will decide whether you committed the rule violation or prohibited act as charged, based on a "preponderance of the evidence" standard (meaning, there's more than a 50% chance that you violated the rule). PBNDS 3.1(V)(F)(4).
- The disciplinary panel should consider written reports, statements and physical evidence and may call witnesses to testify. PBNDS 3.1(V)(F)(2).
- You have a right to have a staff representative at the disciplinary hearing upon request or automatically if you are illiterate, have limited English language skill or need special assistance. PBNDS 3.1(V)(G).
- The disciplinary panel should hear your arguments or your staff representative's arguments. PBNDS 3.1(V)(F)(3).
- The disciplinary panel can impose sanctions if you are found guilty. PBNDS 3.1(V)(F)(2).

CONTINUATION . . .

What are your rights at the disciplinary hearing?

1. You have the right to remain silent at any stage of the disciplinary process. PBNDS 3.1(V)(E)(2).
2. You have the right to attend the hearing or waive your appearance. PBNDS 3.1(V)(F)(2).
3. You have the right to present evidence, including witness testimony on your own behalf or through a staff representative. PBNDS 3.1(V)(F)(4); PBNDS 3.1(V)(G)(7).
4. You have the right to request continuances of your disciplinary hearing. Circumstances warranting a continuance of a hearing might include: defense preparation, physical or mental illness, security, and disciplinary transfer. PBNDS 3.1(V)(J).
5. You have a right to obtain a copy of the disciplinary panel decision which must contain the reason for the decision and sanctions imposed. PBNDS 3.1(V)(F)(3).
6. You have a right to have the disciplinary hearing conducted by an objective and impartial panel. The UDC shall not include the reporting officer, the investigating officer, or an officer who witnessed or was directly involved in the incident, except in the unlikely event that every available officer witnessed or was directly involved in the incident. PBNDS 3.1(V)(F).
7. If you are diagnosed with a mental illness or mental disability, or demonstrate symptoms of mental illness or mental disability, a mental health professional, preferably the treating clinician, shall be consulted to provide input as to your competence to participate in the disciplinary hearing, any impact your mental illness may have had on your responsibility for the charged behavior, and information about any known mitigating factors in regard to the behavior. PBNDS 3.1(II)(9).
8. The facility shall not hold you accountable for your conduct if a medical authority finds you mentally incompetent. For purposes of these standards, a mentally incompetent individual is defined as an individual who is unable to appreciate the difference between appropriate and inappropriate behavior, or between "right" and "wrong." Such an individual is not capable of acting in accordance with those norms and therefore, cannot be held responsible for their "wrongful" actions. PBNDS 3.1(V)(A)(7).
9. If you have a mental disability or mental illness but are found competent, the disciplinary process shall consider whether your mental disabilities or mental illness contributed to your behavior when determining what type of sanction, if any, should be imposed. A mental health professional should also be consulted as to whether certain types of sanctions, (e.g. placement in disciplinary segregation, loss of visits, or loss of phone calls) may be inappropriate because they would interfere with supports that are a part of your treatment or recovery plan. PBNDS 3.1(V)(A)(8).

CONTINUATION . . .

Sanctions:

Staff may not impose or allow imposition of the following sanctions: corporal punishment; deprivation of food services (including the use of Nutraloaf or “food loaf”); deprivation of clothing, bedding or items of personal hygiene; deprivation of correspondence privileges; deprivation of legal access and legal materials; or deprivation of indoor or outdoor recreation, unless such activity would create a documented unsafe condition within the facility. Any sanction imposed shall be approved by the GEO facility administrator and reviewed by the ICE Field Office Director. PBNDS 3.1(V)(A)(5).

Step Four: Appeal of Disciplinary Decision

You have a right to appeal a disciplinary decision through the formal grievance system within 15 days of notice of the disciplinary decision.

Appeal Procedure:

1. Complete Grievance Form detailing the basis of appeal
2. Drop form in “Grievance box” in housing unit
3. Grievance Coordinator will pick up form during normal work week
4. Appeal will be reviewed by the warden or facility administrator
5. You should receive a response ordinarily within 5 days.

What are your rights during the appeal process? No staff member shall harass, discipline, punish or otherwise retaliate against you for filing a complaint or grievance.

If you feel that you are being retaliated against by GEO’s disciplinary process, these are your rights:

- You have the right to protection from abuse, corporal punishment, unnecessary or excessive use of force, personal injury, disease, property damage, and harassment. PBNDS 3.1(V)(B)(1).
- You have the right to freedom from discrimination. Disciplinary action may not lack a rational basis, be retaliatory, or be based on race, religion, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, disability or political beliefs. PBNDS 3.1(V)(B)(2).
- You have the right to pursue a grievance without fear of retaliation. PBNDS 3.1(V)(B)(3).
- You have the right to send and receive mail. PBNDS 3.1(V)(B)(5).
- You have the right to due process including the prompt resolution of a disciplinary matter. PBNDS 3.1(V)(B)(6).

CONTINUATION . . .

- You shall be informed of facility rules and regulations, prohibited acts, disciplinary sanctions that may be imposed, your rights in the disciplinary system and the procedure for appealing disciplinary findings in a language you understand. PBNDS 3.1(V)(B).
- You have the right at each step of the disciplinary and appeal process, to be advised in writing of your rights in a language you understand; translation or interpretation services shall be provided as needed.
PBNDS 3.1(II)(8)
 - If you have limited English proficiency (LEP), you shall receive translation or interpretation services. If you have a disability, you shall receive appropriate accommodations in order to meaningfully participate in the disciplinary process. PBNDS 3.1(II)(20).
- You have the right at all steps of the disciplinary process, to have accurate and complete records maintained. You shall receive copies of all reports, exhibits and other documents considered or generated in the hearing process, except if the disclosure of such documents poses an imminent threat to the safety, security and orderly conduct of the facility staff or other detainees, or if the document or other evidence is otherwise protected from disclosure. PBNDS 3.1(II)(16).
- If you are found not guilty at any stage of the disciplinary process, the incident records shall not be placed or retained in your file, even if these records are retained elsewhere for statistical or historical purposes. PBNDS 3.1(II)(17).

When does ICE/ERO get involved?

Although the GEO handbook states that “all misconduct will be reported to ICE,” it is unclear when ICE actually gets involved in the disciplinary process. However, here is what we do know: it is clear that the PBNDS encourages the facility (GEO) to handle disciplinary proceedings informally.

PBNDS 3.1(II)(4); 3.1(II)(5); 3.1(V)(B); 3.1(V)(F). We also know of instances in which attorneys of leaders have contacted ICE about disciplinary issues and ICE did not know about the incident. In the past, ICE has said that they do not get involved unless the situation was deemed “egregious”.

Important note: ICE always has discretion to get involved and could use this disciplinary record in court proceedings when it is relevant in their case. For example ICE might try to use a disciplinary record in a bond hearing to show that you are a danger to society.

RIGHTS AGAINST RETALIATION UNDER THE PBNDS

PURPOSE - When a powerful group of labor organizers successfully threatens corporate profits, employers often resort to retaliation to try to weaken organizing efforts through scare tactics. This section aims to empower inside leaders to maintain the strength of their organizing efforts by knowing what types of retaliation to expect and by pushing back against retaliation that is expressly forbidden.

This section lists out the ways that GEO's own contract limits its ability to retaliate, and focuses on retaliation that inside leaders have reported, including placement in RHU, limits on communication with the outside, and verbal harassment. While this section only focuses on limits to retaliation listed in the PBNDS, other areas of law (like the First Amendment and labor law) also limit GEO's ability to retaliate against organizing efforts.

LIMITS ON GEO BLOCKING / SLOWING / MONITORING COMMUNICATION WITH THE OUTSIDE

- “Staff may not impose ... deprivation of correspondence privileges [or] deprivation of legal access and legal materials... unless such activity would create a documented unsafe condition within the facility.” PBNDS 3.1(V)(A)(5).
- “A detainee’s call to a court, a legal representative, DHS OIG, DHS CRCL or for the purposes of obtaining legal representation, may not be electronically monitored without a court order.” PBNDS 5.6(V)(B).

LIMITS ON GEO'S RETALIATORY VERBAL HARASSMENT

- Folks in detention have the right to protection from “personal abuse” and “harassment.” PBNDS 3.1(V)(B).
- “Disciplinary action may not be capricious or retaliatory.” PBNDS 3.1(V)(A)(3). [“Capricious” means lacking a rational basis]

LIMITS ON GEO'S RETALIATORY USE OF RHU

Rights in disciplinary RHU - There have been some instances in which GEO has placed detained organizers in disciplinary RHU for the listed "prohibited act" of "engaging in or inciting a group demonstration." PBNDS Appendix 3.1.A. The chart below focuses on the rights that you are owed if you are placed in disciplinary RHU.

Process for placing someone in RHU	Limits to length of time in RHU	Rights for those with disabilities in RHU	Access to medical evaluations in RHU
You can only be placed in RHU after a hearing in which staff find (1) that you committed a prohibited act (Appendix 3.1.A), and (2) there are no alternatives that will "adequately regulate your behavior." PBNDS 2.12(V)(B)	30 days is the limit per incident. PBNDS 2.12(II)(10); 2.12(V)(B)(1).	Those with "a medical or mental illness" must be removed from segregation if staff determine that RHU has "deteriorated" their medical or mental health, and where an "alternative placement is available." PBNDS 2.12(V)(P).	You must receive a mental health evaluation before being placed in RHU, and monthly "face-to-face" mental health evaluations after that. PBNDS 2.12(V)(P).
You must be given a document laying out the reasons for the placement before being placed in RHU.* PBNDS 2.12(V)(B)(1)(a)-(b)	This 30-day limit can only be ignored "in extraordinary circumstances" such as the violations listed at 100-109 Appendix 3.1.A (which does not include "engaging in / inciting a group demonstration." PBNDS 2.12(II)(10); 2.12(V)(B)(1).	Those with serious mental illness (e.g. bipolar, schizophrenia) must receive a mental health consult within 72 hours of placement in RHU, weekly reviews of placement, and weekly face-to-face visits with a mental health provider. PBNDS 2.12(V)(P)(1).	Those in RHU must have "regular access" to health care staff. PBNDS 2.12(II)(13).
GEO has to notify ICE that you have been placed in RHU when you have been in RHU for 14 days, 30 days, and at every 30 day interval after the first 30 days. PBNDS 2.12(V)(C)(1).	"After the first 30 days... the facility administrator shall send a written justification for the continued segregation to the Field Office Director." PBNDS 2.12(V)(B)(1).	The facility must provide "enhanced opportunities for ... therapeutic activities and additional unstructured out-of-cell time for detainees with [a serious mental illness], to the extent such activities can be conducted while ensuring the safety of the detainee, staff and other detainees." Access to services in disciplinary RHU - The chart below focuses on the required access to services for those placed in disciplinary RHU. Individuals placed in administrative segregation are required to be provided “access to programs, services, visitation, counsel and other services available to the general population to the maximum extent possible.” PBNDS 2.12(V)(A)(1)(c)(9).

ASSERTING YOUR RIGHTS AT COURT

SECTION 1: BOND PROCEEDINGS
SECTION 2: IMMIGRATION PROCEEDINGS

BOND PROCEEDINGS

PURPOSE - The purpose of this section is to describe how your labor organizing may impact your bond hearing and what you can do to show the immigration judge that your labor organizing is something positive and beneficial for all workers.

WHO IS PRESENT AT BOND HEARINGS AND WHAT IS THEIR ROLE

- An immigration judge decides whether or not to grant bond. To grant bond, the immigration judge needs to find that a person will not be a “flight risk” (a risk that you will fail to appear for your future court dates) or a “danger to the community” if released from detention.
- An ICE attorney is present at bond hearings and represents the government.
- The ICE attorney does not represent you and is not on your side. They will not introduce positive evidence for you. That means that the ICE attorney will not provide the judge with evidence that you have been working while detained.
- The ICE attorney may provide evidence that you are a “flight risk” or a “danger to the community”
- The ICE attorney may try to argue that a person is a “danger to the community” if a person has a disciplinary record (or write-ups) while in ICE custody. They can ask GEO for disciplinary records that appear in a person’s detention file and share these records with the judge.
- GEO does not participate in bond hearings.

DISCIPLINARY RECORDS & DEFENDING YOUR RIGHTS BEFORE YOUR BOND HEARING

- Some “Prohibited Acts” that could appear in a person’s disciplinary record are:
 - Engaging in or inciting a group demonstration
 - Encouraging others to participate in a work stoppage or to refuse to work
 - Interfering with a staff member in the performance of duties
 - Conduct that disrupts or interferes with the security or orderly operation of the facility
- You have rights in the disciplinary system and can appeal disciplinary findings. PBNDS 3.1(II)(1).
- When preparing to appeal, it is important to know that disciplinary action may not be retaliatory nor based on race, religion, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, disability or political beliefs. PBNDS 3.1(V)(A)(3). If you believe that GEO took disciplinary action against you as a form of retaliation for your labor organizing or discriminated against you, you can include that information in your appeal.
- Also, under the Voluntary Work Program - Working conditions must comply with all applicable federal, state, and local work safety laws and regulations. PBNDS 5.8(II)(5). If GEO took disciplinary action against you because you were protesting unsanitary or unsafe working conditions as part of your labor organizing, you can include this information in your appeal.

PREPARING FOR YOUR BOND HEARING & GATHERING SUPPORTING EVIDENCE

- When preparing for a bond hearing, you should request your disciplinary record.
 - If you received write-ups for participating in a strike or peaceful protest, you can argue in your bond case that, as part of the strike or peaceful protest, you were participating in labor organizing in order to advocate for improved working conditions for all workers, which is something that unions have been doing for years in the United States. (See Labor History in the United States and California section).
 - To support your argument that you are not a “danger to the community” when participating in labor organizing, you can submit support letters from people, such as fellow detained leaders or your family members, who could corroborate your reasons for participating in the strike.
 - You can also include the attached letter of support of Emily Comer, one of the teachers who led the historical labor strike in West Virginia. (See Appendix and Labor History in the United States and California section).
 - If you filed grievances describing the unsanitary or unsafe working conditions in detention before participating in the strike, you can also include these grievances as part of your evidence to show the judge that you attempted to resolve issues with GEO before the strike, but GEO failed to remedy your grievances.
 - You can also include the Pangea Legal Services Press Releases that are found in the Appendix which highlight your advocacy and reasons for participating in the strike.
 - Additionally, to dispel any write-ups, you can reach out to the media and tell your story about the unjust conditions and treatment inside of the detention center.
 - You can also include the articles found in the Appendix as part of your evidence.
 - Finally, we can help Pack the Court during your bond hearing. We can ask community members to attend your bond hearing to show the immigration judge that many people appreciate your labor activism, support your release on bond, and do not think you are a danger.

GEO may try to scare you out of participating in a labor strike or peaceful protest by threatening to use your labor activism against you in your bond hearing, but remember, they do not participate in bond hearings. Your right to participate in labor organizing is protected by law. You have the right to tell your side of the story and to prove to the immigration judge that you are not a “danger to the community.”

IMMIGRATION PROCEEDINGS

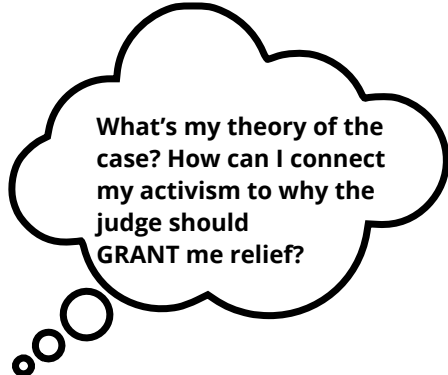

PURPOSE - The purpose of this section is to flag how ICE's retaliation to your organizing efforts might impact your immigration case. This will be accomplished by going through the relevant bars to commonly filed forms of relief at immigration court. This section will NOT cover what is required to APPLY for these forms of relief, although materials on that can be mailed at your request.

BACKGROUND - By now, you will have read that there are many avenues for challenging any charge that GEO or ICE raises against you for activism within their facilities and you should exercise these rights in advance of your immigration hearing!

KEY TERMS

'THEORY OF THE CASE' - What narrative will YOU present to frame your activism in the most favorable way? How will ICE try to frame your activism in the most negative way? Framing matters because DISCRETION matters.

DISCRETION - Some forms of relief are discretionary, meaning the Immigration Judge has the choice to decide whether or not to grant the relief based on whether they think you deserve it. In contrast, some forms of relief are mandatory, meaning that the Immigration Judge must grant the application if you meet the requirements.

What's my theory of the case? How can I connect my activism to why the judge should GRANT me relief?

CONTINUATION . . .

- Your participation in the labor strike could count as a positive basis for discretion if you or your attorney frame it as your exercise of a historical right enshrined in robust federal and state-wide protections that is serving to make the workplace safer for us all.
- Your participation in the labor strike could count as a positive basis for discretion if it's linked to a history of long-term employment and highlighting that you desire to work and are a breadwinner in your family. You could contrast that with the $1 / day in wages (which aren't enough for you to support your family) and state that you aren't willing to jeopardize your health for this wage (because the labor conditions in detention are so bad).
- Your participation in the labor strike could count as a positive basis for discretion if you gather support letters from other inside leaders and advocates attesting to the non-violent nature of your participation and showcasing other positive qualities that you've been able to develop and demonstrate through your activism.
- Your participation in the labor strike could count negatively against you under the immigration judge's discretionary analysis if GEO and ICE succeed in framing your participation as violent or coercive in any way. This is another reason why you should challenge every write-up against you and create your OWN paper trail.

What kinds of relief are commonly pursued in immigration court?

- Asylum - is a discretionary form of relief. You must prove that you have a reasonable possibility of future persecution on account of race, religion, nationality, political opinion, or membership in a particular social group.
- Withholding of Removal ("WOR") - is a mandatory form of relief. You must prove that your life or freedom will more likely than not be threatened on account of race, religion, nationality, political opinion or membership in a particular social group.
- Protection Under the Convention Against Torture ("CAT") - is a mandatory form of relief. You must prove that you are more than likely to be tortured by the government or by actors that the government willingly allows to torture you.

CONTINUATION . . .

- LPR Cancellation of Removal - is a discretionary form of relief. First, you must prove three main things to be eligible for this relief: 1) you have been an LPR for at least 5 years; 2) you have lived continuously in the U.S. for at least 7 years; and 3) you have not been convicted of an aggravated felony. Depending on when and how you entered the U.S., if or when you committed certain criminal offenses, and when you were placed in removal proceedings, your 7 years of continuous residence may be affected, even if you have technically lived in the U.S. for over 7 years. Once you have met these three requirements, the judge will then make a decision about whether to grant LPR Cancellation of Removal based on their discretion.
- Non-LPR Cancellation of Removal - is a discretionary form of relief. First, you must prove four main things to be eligible for this relief: 1) you have been physically present in the United States for at least ten years; 2) you have had “good moral character” for ten years; 3) you have not been convicted of certain crimes; and 4) your deportation would cause exceptional and extremely unusual hardship to her LPR or U.S. citizen spouse, child, or parent. Once you have proven these four requirements, the judge will then make a decision about whether to grant non-LPR Cancellation of Removal based on their discretion.

Certain Bars that May Come Up Based on ICE’s Retaliation Against Activism

- Let’s start with the safety net. No activity - that you participated in in the US or elsewhere in the world - should bar you from eligibility for Protection Under the Convention Against Torture. You could get a million write-ups and STILL be eligible for this protection.
- It’s very unlikely that write-ups for your non-violent participation in the labor strike will be a bar to Withholding of Removal. Remember, it is a mandatory form of relief. However, there is one bar that may be relevant here: the particularly serious crime bar. You will be barred from applying for Withholding of Removal if all of the following happens:
 - (1) You are convicted for activity related to the labor strike (this would mean that you are separately charged in a criminal proceeding and either plead guilty to that charge or are found guilty at the end of a trial);
 - (2) This conviction(s) is/are found to constitute an “aggravated felony;”
 - (3) The length of the sentences corresponding to your convictions adds up to more than five years.

CONTINUATION . . .

- The particularly serious crime bar also applies in the asylum context, and the rule is different because asylum is the most generous form of relief. You could be barred from asylum if all of the following happens:
 - You are convicted for activity related to the labor strike (this would mean that you are separately charged in a criminal proceeding and either plead guilty to that charge or are found guilty at the end of a trial);
 - This conviction is found to constitute an aggravated felony. One conviction constituting an aggravated felony could bar you from applying for asylum.

ADDITIONAL PROTECTIONS IF YOU'RE FACING RETALIATION FOR PROTECTED ACTIVITY

SECTION 1: FILING A COMPLAINT WITH THE DFEH,
EEOC, DLSE, OR CAL OSHA

SECTION 2: WORKPLACE BASED U-VISAS

SECTION 3: PROSECUTORIAL DISCRETION

FILING A COMPLAINT WITH THE DFEH, EEOC, DLSE, OR CAL OSHA

PURPOSE - The purpose of this section is to introduce you to agencies that enforce the California labor code, including minimum wage, overtime, workplace safety, and illegal discrimination laws. The appendix has forms from some of the agencies mentioned below. At the bottom is a short table explaining those agencies, but before we get there, here is some background information and definitions that might be useful as you get a handle on CA employment law.

BACKGROUND - Thanks to a strong labor movement and powerful unions, California has some of the best laws for workers in the United States. California also has state agencies that make sure workers can enforce their workplace rights.

Unfortunately, many of these agencies lack resources and can take years to process a complaint, and others might not accept a complaint without help from an advocate in preparing them.

Special Note - If you file charges with state employment/labor agencies, consider asking those agencies (e.g. DLSE [California Division of Labor Standards Enforcement]) to provide a letter of support for your bond hearing.

HOW TO USE THE REPORTING FORMS

- Be sure to keep a copy for yourself or for sharing with advocates and organizers on the outside. Sometimes the agencies need to be pressured to take cases or move cases along.
- Know that the agencies are delayed and may not take cases as fast as we would like them to.
- Use the table at the end of this section to figure out which agencies you can file complaints with.
- In the appendix, there are forms for some of the agencies that prefer forms (DLSE) and resources to file online or over the phone with other agencies (DFEH, EEOC, Cal. OSHA)

CONTINUATION . . .

INDEX OF IMPORTANT TERMS

- California Minimum Wage: $15.00/hour as of August 1, 2022.

- Overtime:
 - Overtime pay is 1.5 times an employee’s regular rate of pay.
 - In California, eligible employees are entitled to overtime in three scenarios. (Separate rules apply to domestic workers and farm workers.)
 - i. After working 8 hours in a single day.
 - ii. After working 40 hours at their regular rate of pay in a single week.
 - iii. On the seventh day of work in a single workweek. (Most employers’ workweeks are from Sunday through Saturday, but an employer can also set a workweek from Monday to Sunday or any other continuous seven-day period).

- Discrimination: Being treated differently or unfairly. Discrimination in employment is illegal when the treatment is based on a personal characteristic or status, such as sex or race.
 - Not every form of discriminatory or unfair treatment is illegal.
 - Discrimination can be expressed through “harassment,” when a boss, supervisor, or co-worker says or does something that creates an intimidating, hostile or threatening work environment. Harassment is illegal if it is based on a personal characteristic or status protected under anti-discrimination laws.
 - To be illegal, the harassment must be so “severe or pervasive” that it interferes with the employee’s ability to perform the job.
 - There are various federal laws prohibiting employment discrimination:
 - Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 (“Title VII”) prohibits discrimination based on race, color, sex (including sexual harassment), national origin (including characteristics related to one’s national origin, such as language), religion, and pregnancy.
 - The Americans with Disabilities Act (“ADA”) prohibits discrimination on the basis of disability.
 - The Age Discrimination in Employment Act (“ADEA”) prohibits discrimination based on age (40+).
 - California’s main anti-discrimination law in employment is the Fair Employment and Housing Act (“FEHA”), which prohibits discrimination based on race, color, sex (including sexual harassment), national origin, ancestry, disability, sexual orientation, gender identity (including being transgender), medical condition (cancer), pregnancy, marital status, and military status.
 - Additional protections against discrimination are found in the California Labor Code, including protections for crime victims who testify at trials, employees who take time off for jury duty, and victims of domestic violence, sexual assault and stalking.
 - The time period to file a charge in California is different depending on if you file with the EEOC or the DFEH. You must file your charge within the time period or you will lose your right to sue your employer.
 - EEOC: you must file your charge within 300 days of the last act of discrimination.
 - DFEH: you must file your charge within 3 years of the last act of discrimination.

CONTINUATION . . .

INDEX OF IMPORTANT TERMS

- Disability:

- Not everyone with a medical condition is protected from discrimination. In order to be protected, a person must be qualified for their job and have a disability as defined by the law.
- A person can show that they have a disability in one of three ways:
 - if they have a physical or mental condition that substantially limits a major life activity (such as walking, talking, seeing, hearing or learning, or operation of a major bodily function).
 - A person has a disability if they have a history of a disability (such as cancer that is in remission).
 - A person has a disability if they are believed to have a physical or mental impairment that lasts longer than six months and that isn't minor (even if they don't have such an impairment)
- CA definition of disability is broader than the federal law defining disability

- Reasonable accommodation:

- Employers are required to make reasonable accommodations to the work environment for people with disabilities. [And only for people with disabilities]
- A reasonable accommodation is any change in the work environment to help a person with a disability apply for a job, perform the duties of a job or enjoy the benefits and privileges of employment. The most common examples of reasonable accommodations include:
 - Adjusting work schedules
 - Amending job duties
 - Relocating the work area
 - Granting leave for medical care
 - Providing technological assistance

- Retaliation:

- Retaliation is when an employer takes “adverse action” against an employee because they have exercised a “protected legal right.” Many state and federal laws protect employees from employer retaliation.
- Examples of protected legal rights include:
 - Seeking information or legal advice on your workplace rights
 - Notifying anyone about a possible violation of legal rights in your workplace
 - Complaining that you or someone else is owed unpaid wages
 - Complaining about harassment or discriminatory treatment on the job
 - Complaining about unsafe working conditions
 - Talking with your co-workers about your wages or workplace concerns, including the possibility of unionizing
 - Filing a workers’ compensation claim
 - Filing or participating in a complaint with a governmental agency, like the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC), the California Labor Commissioner (DLSE) or Department of Fair Employment and Housing (DFEH), or other workplace rights agency (e.g., Cal OSHA)
 - Filing a lawsuit against your employer, or supporting co-workers who have filed a lawsuit
 - Whistleblowing (alerting governmental agencies about your employer’s unlawful practices)
- If you choose to file with DLSE, you must do so within 180 days (6 months) of the retaliatory act. DLSE is supposed to investigate and issue a decision within 60 days of receiving your complaint [Note: it usually takes much longer]. If DLSE finds that your employer has unlawfully retaliated against you, penalties may include suspension of the employer’s business license and/or a fine.

CONTINUATION . . .

Retaliation for Reporting Discrimination

- If you have been retaliated against for complaining about discrimination in the workplace — if you or others complained about being treated worse than other employees because of your race, sex, gender identity/expression, national origin, color, religion, disability, age (40 or older), military/veteran status, or pregnancy status – you may file a retaliation complaint with either the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (“EEOC”) or the California Department of Fair Employment and Housing (“DFEH”).
 - For a list of ways to file with the EEOC, visit their website at <http://www.eeoc.gov/employees/howtofile.cfm>. (Or see appendix)
 - If you are filing with the EEOC, you have 300 days from the date of the retaliation to file your complaint.
 - For a list of ways to file with the DFEH, visit their website at http://www.dfeh.ca.gov/Complaints_ComplaintProcess.htm. (Or see appendix)
 - If you are filing with the DFEH, you have one year from the date of retaliation to do so.
- If you were retaliated against because you complained about health or safety conditions at the workplace, you may also file a claim with the federal Office of Safety and Health Administration (“OSHA”).
 - A claim form with OSHA is available at <https://www.osha.gov/whistleblower/WBComplaint.html>. You can also call or send a letter to your OSHA Regional office:
 - (661) 588-6400
 - Bakersfield Office, 7718 Meany Ave, Bakersfield, CA 93308
 - In general, you have 30 days from your employer’s retaliatory act to file a claim with OSHA. However, this time period may be longer depending upon the specific OSHA violation you report.
 - If you filed a health or safety complaint with California’s Office of Safety and Health Administration (“Cal/OSHA”) and were retaliated against, you may also file a claim with the DLSE.
 - The DLSE complaint form is available at www.dir.ca.gov. If you choose to file with DLSE, you must do so within 180 days (6 months) of the retaliatory act.
- You cannot be fired simply because you engaged in a political protest, which is considered protected political activity in California. Specifically, California Labor Code 1102 does not allow your employer to discharge, or threaten to discharge you for following any particular “course or line” of political action or activity, such as a gathering or march to protest actions by federal, state, or local government officials. Similarly, Labor Code 96(k) and 98.6 protect you from being demoted, disciplined or discharged for “lawful conduct occurring during non-working hours away from the employer’s premises.”
 - However, you can be disciplined or fired if you missed work without permission while you engaged in the protest (unless your employer never disciplines employees for missing work for any other reason). You can also be disciplined or fired if your political activities significantly disrupt your employer’s business.
 - Any employer who violates Cal Labor Code 1102 is guilty of a misdemeanor. The violation is punishable, in the case of an individual, by imprisonment in the county jail not to exceed one year or a fine not to exceed $1,000, or both. If the employer is a corporation, the violation is punishable by a fine not to exceed $5,000.

FURTHER RESOURCES: If you have further questions about filing complaints related to retaliation, wage payment, working conditions, discrimination, or workplace health, consider calling Legal Aid at Work's hotline (Legal Aid at Work: (415) 404-9093) or other workers' rights programs.

Agency Name(s)	Types of Legal Arguments	Time Limits
DFEH (Department of Fair Employment and Housing)	Discrimination based on race, sex, national origin, religion, pregnancy, age, disability, marital status, sexual orientation, gender identity, domestic violence/stalking, and military status	Filing with DFEH three years from the discriminatory act, but statutory and equitable grounds exist to extend filing deadline
EEOC (Equal Employment Opportunity Commission)	Discrimination based on race, sex, national origin, religion, pregnancy, age, disability, military status, and debtor status	180 days from date of discrimination, 300 days from the day if state/local law prohibits employment discrimination on same basis
DLSE (Division of Labor Standards and Enforcements aka The Labor Commissioner)	California labor code violations, primarily wage violations (minimum wage, overtime, sick time, workers' comp), but also retaliation	One year to file for "violations of a statute that amounts to a penalty or forfeiture" (so if the law says there's a $ penalty for violating this statute) and 3 years for claims that don't have a $ penalty, like minimum wage, overtime, and unreimbursed expenses
Cal. OSHA (Division of Occupational Safety and Health)	Violations of health and safety requirements in California workplaces; retaliation (including threats, discharge, demotion, or suspensions) for reporting hazards	None for notifying about unsafe conditions but six months from retaliation with DLSE

WORKPLACE BASED U-VISAS

To be eligible for a U visa, you must show:

1. That you have suffered substantial physical or mental abuse as a result of having been a victim of a qualifying criminal activity that occurred in the United States;
2. Possess information concerning the qualifying criminal activity;
3. Be helpful in the investigation of this criminal activity;
4. Be eligible to be "admitted" into the US or show that you qualify for a waiver for illegal re-entries to the US, past criminal history, etc., through showing concretely how you are a different person today that will not make the same mistakes you made in the past.

Qualifying Crimes

You must show that you were a victim of a "qualifying crime" to apply for a U-Visa. Below are some of the most common workplace based qualifying crimes:

Extortion

Elements:

- When a threat or fear is used to force you to give up something of value (for example, money or a service)

OR

- When someone receives something of value from you (this might be a public official who says that they are entitled to the thing of value due to their title and position)
- Example: In one case recently certified for extortion, a worker requested unpaid wages from his employer, only to be threatened with a false report of his immigration status to local law enforcement officials
- Screening question: Did ICE or GEO staff ever threaten violence, report your immigration status, or threaten to/destroy your reputation to obtain property, money, or force you to do something you didn't want to do?

Blackmail

- When you feel forced to comply with a demand because somebody threatens to reveal something about you (this could be a true thing or a lie)
- Example: In its U-visa certification protocol, the NLRB has specified that "blackmail may include interfering with protected activity through illegal threats of retaliation such as threats to call immigration authorities or threats to "blacklist" employees"

CONTINUATION . . .

False Imprisonment

- When someone stops you from being able to move against your will without any legal basis
- Example: An employer refuses to allow you to leave a room or worksite by physically blocking the exit, or by locking workers in at a worksite
- Screening question: Has ICE or GEO staff ever forced you into a space where you did not want to go in order to make you do work in that space?

Felonious assault

- Assault is the intentional attempt by a person, by force or violence, to injure another person
- Screening question: Have you ever been subject to violence or an attempt to commit violence, including beating with or without a weapon, by ICE or GEO staff?

Involuntary servitude, peonage, trafficking

- Elements: When you are forced to work under –
 - Any scheme, plan, or pattern intended to cause you to believe that, if you did not start or continue to work, you or another person would suffer serious harm or physical restraint; or
 - The abuse or threatened abuse of the legal process.

22 U.S.C. § 7102(5)

- Supporting facts: wage violations, inadequate food, housing, medical care, clothing, verbal/physical abuse, restricted contact with loved ones, use of locks/fences to restrict mobility
- Screening Questions: Have you ever experienced any of the following in relation to your work at GSA/MV?
 - Threats of deportation
 - Threat to contact law enforcement/immigration to compel work
 - Threats, curses, yelling, intimidation, including threats to call police or law enforcement agencies or to use physical force
 - Seizure of identity documents, travel documents, passports
 - Underpayment of wages, with requirements to pay off debts
 - Physical assault, including hitting, punching, shaking, beating, and choking
 - Deprivation of medical care
 - Restriction on basic necessities, including food, clothing, sleep, and decent living conditions
 - Control of financial accounts and wage payments

CONTINUATION . . .

Obstruction of Justice, Perjury, Witness Tampering

- 8 C.F.R. § 214.14(a)(14)(ii):
 - You have been harmed (directly or indirectly) by someone who tried to negatively influence or stop any pending legal proceeding through use of threats or force
 - This was done purposefully, at least in part, to prevent someone from being held accountable for criminal activity OR to allow the perpetrator to continue the abuse through manipulation of the legal system
- Examples: Destruction, alteration, or falsification of records, including labor certification, wage/hour records, and birth certificates
- Screening Questions: Did ICE or GEO staff ever:
 - Intimidate or threaten you to delay or prevent testimony in an “official proceeding”?
 - Alter, destroy, conceal records?
 - Hinder, delay, or prevent communication to authorities?
 - Threaten to damage property or cause bodily harm to delay or prevent witness participation?

CERTIFYING AGENCY

- Before you can apply for a U-Visa, you must get a law enforcement agency to certify that you were a victim of “qualifying crime” and that you have been helpful with their investigations.
 - Federal Agencies
 - U.S. Department of Labor
 - Will only certify for the following U-visa qualifying crimes:
 - Involuntary servitude
 - Peonage
 - Trafficking
 - Obstruction of Justice
 - Witness Tampering
 - Equal Employment Opportunity Commission
 - Will certify any U-visa qualifying crime
 - Must relate to unlawful employment discrimination
 - National Labor Relations Board
 - Will certify any U-visa qualifying crime
 - Must be related to an unfair labor practice that the NLRB is currently investigating
 - State Agencies
 - California Division of Labor Standards Enforcement (DLSE)
 - California Department of Fair Employment and Housing (DFEH)
 - Local Law enforcement (Bakersfield or McFarland police departments)
 - May investigate crimes involving physical violence
 - If they investigate, they will come to the facility to interview you and others involved

CONTINUATION . . .

SUBSTANTIAL MENTAL OR PHYSICAL ABUSE

- To apply for a U-Visa, you have to show that the harm you suffered was severe, prolonged, aggravated your mental health or other pre-existing health conditions, and/or was otherwise very serious.
- Screening Questions:
 - Did you suffer a direct injury?
 - After suffering the qualifying crime, have you experienced a lack of motivation, a loss in the interest to live, lower self-esteem, more fatigue or an inability to sleep, becoming angry or irritable more easily, feeling overwhelmed, or anything similar to this?
 - Before you suffered this qualifying crime, do you know if you struggled with anxiety, depression, post-traumatic stress disorder or some other mental health issue?
- Tips:
 - Make sure to connect the harm you suffered back to the qualifying crime. It's important to be able to say: "After X happened, I suffered Y." And then explain how X caused Y.

OTHER REQUIREMENTS

- If you have a criminal record or past immigration violations, you may need to request a waiver to be able to get the U-visa.
- A waiver is like a pardon. You need to submit evidence that letting you stay in the US is in the public interest.
- The U-visa process can take a long time. If you have a case before the Immigration Court, the judge may not want to give you time to apply for the U-visa. For that reason, you should start the process as soon as possible.
- If you are deported, you can still apply for the U-visa from outside the United States.

U-VISA BENEFITS

- If you are detained, applying for a U-visa is a positive factor if you file a release request;
- Lawful status for up to four years;
- Automatic grant of employment authorization;
- Eligibility to adjust status to that of a lawful permanent resident after three years (and then to become a US citizen);
- Might be able to apply for your family members to also get the same status as you
 - If you file a U-Visa and you are older than 21, you can file your U-Visa for you and also name your spouse and unmarried children under the age of 21.
 - If under the age of 21 at the time of filing, you can also name your parents spouse, children, and unmarried siblings under 18.

PROSECUTORIAL DISCRETION

PURPOSE

The purpose of this section is to flag how GEO Group's and/or ICE's retaliation against you and your organizing efforts might impact a request for prosecutorial discretion that you send to ICE or another agency, like the Department of Labor. To do this, this section will explain a bit about what ICE and other agencies are supposed to consider when they answer a release request.

BACKGROUND

ICE's Prosecutorial Discretion

- ICE has the power to release people from immigration detention. This comes from ICE's prosecutorial discretion authority. Certain laws and policies include the factors that ICE, as a governmental agency, is supposed to consider when deciding who to release.
- However, the decision-making process for ICE release requests historically has been very unclear. Also, under these same laws and policies, ICE has a lot of power to grant or deny requests with little to no explanation.
- So, this section will provide what we know and what we see to the best of our ability, but it is important to note that an ICE release request is a difficult process to predict.

Department of Labor Support

- DOL (US Department of Labor, see Important Actors section) recently released information about their process for considering requests for support for immigration related prosecutorial discretion for workers involved in labor disputes.
- This means that workers who are experiencing a labor dispute at their worksite can notify DOL of the labor dispute and request that DOL submit a "Statement of DOL Interest" in support of request to DHS for immigration-related prosecutorial discretion.
- Because this is a new process, we do not currently have any examples of DOL submitting one of these Statements of DOL Interest in an individual case.
- We encourage you to try to ask for their support, but with the understanding that DOL may not give their support in the current situation, where detained workers are on strike from their jobs in the detention centers.

PROCESS FOR PROSECUTORIAL DISCRETION REQUESTS TO ICE

See template request in the Appendix at pg. 97.

Who makes the decision to grant or deny a release request?

ICE makes the decisions about release requests. GEO Group, or other private contractors that ICE contracts to run their detention facilities, do NOT make these decisions.

CONTINUATION . . .

What laws/policies currently give ICE the power to release individuals from detention?

Under the law, ICE has the discretionary authority to release people from immigration detention. This is as broad as it sounds. However, there are other laws and policies that also affect ICE's broad authority/power.

- For example, under the law, people with certain criminal offenses are considered to be under "mandatory detention," meaning, they "have to" stay detained.
- As another example, people who the government believes have engaged in "terrorism" or "espionage" are generally considered to be under mandatory detention.

ICE creates memoranda (memos) about how they will use their power to arrest and detain immigrants in the US. Here are some examples of ICE Memos:

Mayorkas Memo: At the moment (August 2022), the ICE enforcement memo called the Mayorkas Memo is no longer in place. You should NOT ask ICE to release you based on this memo.

Doyle Memo: Even though you should NOT use the Mayorkas Memo, some of the same principles are contained in the Doyle Memo which ICE attorneys are supposed to use when considering "prosecutorial discretion" for people in immigration court. You can reference the Doyle Memo to understand more about:

- ICE's power/prosecutorial discretionary authority; and
- ICE's enforcement priorities: a) threat to national security, b) threat to public safety, and c) threat to border security

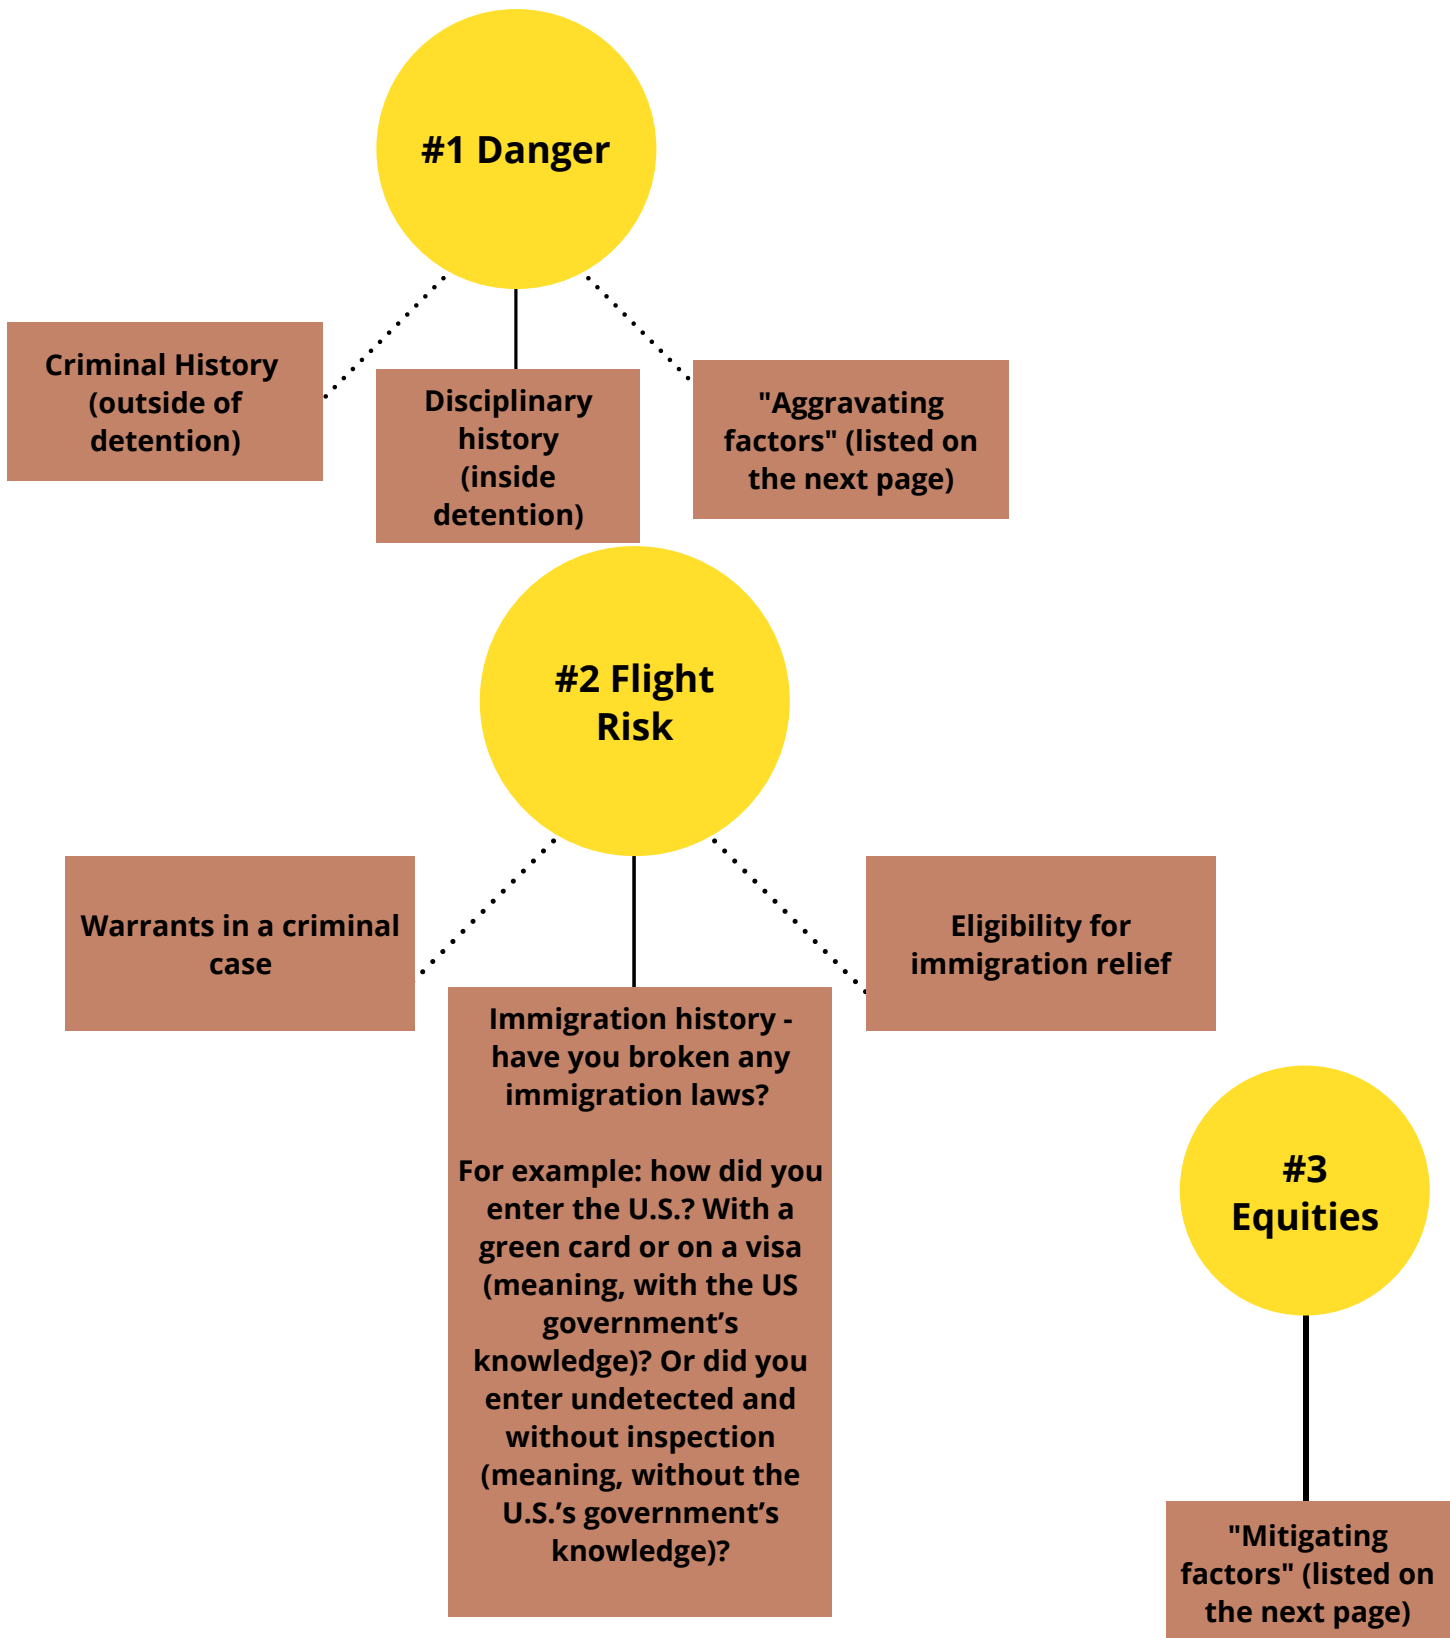

Morton Memo on Prosecutorial Discretion for Certain Victims, Witnesses, and Plaintiffs (see Appendix at pg. 93): This memo is from June 2011, but it is still in effect. That means you CAN ask ICE to release you based on this memo.

- On page 2 of the memo, it says that when ICE officers are using their prosecutorial discretion to detain or release a noncitizen, they should give special consideration to cases where the noncitizen is a victim of a crime, a witness to a crime, or someone pursuing legitimate civil rights complaints. It also says that special attention should be given to noncitizens who are "plaintiffs in non-frivolous lawsuits regarding civil rights or liberties violations," and noncitizens "engaging in a protected activity related to civil or other rights (for example, union organizing or complaining to authorities about employment discrimination or housing conditions) who may be in a non-frivolous dispute with an employer, landlord, or contractor."
- As some of you may know, the Dollar-A-Day Lawsuit was just filed against GEO Group, on behalf of noncitizens detained at Mesa Verde and Golden State Annex who have exposed the many employment, labor, and other civil rights violations that GEO Group is committing in those facilities. This lawsuit – and also a peaceful protest or strike against civil rights violations – could be an example of what this ICE memo is directing ICE to consider.

CONTINUATION . . .

What are the relevant factors that ICE considers when deciding a release request?

In general, ICE will consider three main things when deciding to release someone or keep them detained:

CONTINUATION . . .

When considering these three main things above, ICE states that it will consider “mitigating” and “aggravating” factors when it uses its prosecutorial discretion power.

Mitigating factors are facts or circumstances that lessen the severity or culpability of a crime/offense/bad act.

Some examples of mitigating factors are: Old or young in age; long presence in the U.S.; a mental condition that may have contributed to committing the bad act; a physical or mental health condition that requires care or treatment; status as a victim of a crime; victim, witness or party in a legal proceeding, including relating to human trafficking and labor exploitation (see the Morton Memo, Appendix at 93); the impact of deportation on family, such as loss of provider or caregiver; whether the noncitizen is eligible for humanitarian protection or other immigration relief; military or other public service of the noncitizen or their immediate family; time passed since a crime was committed and evidence of rehabilitation; and whether a conviction was vacated or expunged.

Aggravating factors are facts or circumstances that increase the severity or culpability of crime/offense/bad act.

Some examples of aggravating factors are: The seriousness of an offense or conviction; the length and nature of the sentence imposed; the nature and degree of harm caused to the victim or the community by the criminal offense; the sophistication of the criminal offense; use or threatened use of a firearm or dangerous weapon; a serious prior criminal record; and prior immigration history (like prior entries without inspection, or prior deportations).

Do write-ups fit into any of these elements?

Technically, yes. ICE can consider any write-ups from inside detention when they make decisions about a release request. In general, ICE will probably use them against you.

However, it is up to you how you frame any write-ups, especially those that may be related to you engaging in a strike or demonstration because your civil rights are being violated.

- For example, you could use the language in the Morton Memo (see Appendix at pg. 93) to show:
 - That ICE should release you because you are “engaging in a protected activity related to civil or other rights (for example, union organizing or complaining to authorities about employment discrimination or housing conditions) who may be in a non-frivolous dispute with an employer, landlord, or contractor,” or
 - That ICE should release you because you are “a plaintiff in non-frivolous lawsuits regarding civil rights or liberties violations” (like the dollar-a-day lawsuit).
- You could also use the resources and information on the history of labor strikes in the U.S. to support your right to engage in these activities and your release request.

CONTINUATION . . .

Does agreeing to work for GEO Group fit into any of these elements?

Technically, no.

Working inside of the detention center does not show that you are not dangerous, and it does not show that you are not a flight risk.

What else can you do to get support for your ICE release request?

Call your elected official and tell them the ICE is unfairly detaining you. Explain your situation and why you believe ICE should release you.

- You and your loved ones have the right to ask your representatives (senators and congress members) for help.
- You/your loved ones can call them, write to them, and request a meeting with them to ask that they advocate for your release.
- You can also ask your community to help pressure your representatives to advocate for your release.

PROCESS FOR ASKING DOL TO SUPPORT YOUR PROSECUTORIAL DISCRETION REQUEST TO ICE

*Just a reminder that this process is new, so we don't have examples yet of how this will work, especially for folks in detention who are engaged in a labor strike/dispute with Geo, their employer.

*If you have any questions about the process, you can email statementrequests@dol.gov before submitting your request. See Appendix at pg. 103 for the frequently asked questions.

CONTINUATION . . .

What does DOL have to do with prosecutorial discretion in DHS/ICE proceedings?

DOL has an interest in protecting workers at their places of work. The job of the agency is to make sure labor laws are not being violated by employers. If those laws are being violated, DOL is tasked with enforcing those laws.

DOL has recently announced a new policy offering to give support letters to noncitizens in labor disputes. They are calling these letters a “Statement of DOL Interest.”

This means you can report to DOL that you are in a labor dispute with your employer and ask DOL to give you a “Statement of DOL Interest” to show their support for you (and your fellow workers, if others are involved)

DOL’s new policy is specifically focused on immigrant workers who want DOL’s support when they ask DHS/ICE to exercise prosecutorial discretion in their immigration case or in immigration-related matters.

What is a “Statement of DOL Interest”?

The Statement of DOL Interest lets DHS know that DOL believes DHS’s use of its prosecutorial discretion for employees at a particular worksite is necessary for DOL to effectively carry out its mission, and that it supports workers’ requests for immigration-related prosecutorial discretion. We believe it may take the form of a letter of support.

Example of when a Statement of DOL Interest could be helpful:

Workers have faced retaliation for complaining about their wages or working conditions, and fear retaliatory immigration action if they participate in a DOL investigation or legal proceeding. DHS’s use of prosecutorial discretion may help to alleviate that fear and further DOL’s investigation or enforcement action. Worker participation strengthens DOL’s ability to get a remedy and/or make sure employer’s are complying with labor and employment laws.

CONTINUATION . . .

What are the relevant factors that DOL will consider when deciding whether to provide support (a Statement of DOL Interest) in a worksite's labor dispute?

- Workers are experiencing retaliation, threats of retaliation, or fear of retaliation and/or may be too scared to report violations of the law or participate in DOL enforcement
- Immigration enforcement could be an instrument used to undermine DOL's enforcement of laws in the area or industry and/or give rise to further immigration-based retaliation
- DOL needs witnesses to participate in its investigation and/or possible enforcement
- DHS's use of prosecutorial discretion would support DOL's interest in holding labor law violators accountable for such violations;
- Immigration enforcement concerning workers who may be witnesses to or victims of a violation of laws within DOL's jurisdiction could impede DOL's ability to enforce the labor laws or provide all available remedies within its jurisdiction

How do I ask DOL to tell DHS that I am in a labor dispute with my employer and ask DOL to support my request that DHS exercise immigration-related prosecutorial discretion?

A request may be made by a worker or by an advocate or representative.
Requests may be made on behalf of a group of workers.

CONTINUATION . . .

Address your email to:
statementrequest@dol.gov

Subject line:
"Request for Statement of DOL Interest"

In the body of the email:
Provide enough information about the worksite that is the subject of the labor dispute so that the DOL can identify it.
(For example, the business/name, address/location, and work performed at the worksite)

Include in the email any facts that support your request and the factors DOL considers (listed above), including but not limited to:

A description of the labor dispute and how it is related to the laws enforced by DOL

A description of any retaliation or threats workers at the worksite may have witnessed or experienced related to labor disputes; and

A description of how fear among workers at the worksite of potential immigration-related retaliation or other immigration enforcement in the future is likely to deter workers from reporting violations related to the labor dispute to DOL or otherwise cooperating with DOL. Specify the time, place, and manner of any relevant facts.

CONTINUATION . . .

In the email, DO NOT include:

Individual workers' immigration histories or needs

Sensitive, personally identifiable information, including dates of birth, social security numbers, or A numbers.

What happens after I email DOL a request for support?

DOL will decide if it is going to give you support in the form of a Statement of DOL Interest.

If DOL decides to offer this support to you in your labor dispute, it will either send the Statement of DOL Interest to you, or to both you and DHS.

Will the DOL keep my information confidential?

As much as the law allows, DOL will keep requests for a Statement of DOL Interest confidential.

DOL will share Statements of DOL Interest with DHS, but such Statements typically will not contain any personally identifiable information of any individual without their prior permission and notification.

How long will it take DOL to respond to my request?

At the moment, DOL is hoping to respond to requests within 30 days. If they do not respond within 30 days with a decision, DOL will hope to provide a status update every 30 days until a decision is made.

Don't underestimate the power of your voice and your experience, and that of your community!

CONCLUSION

Thank you for reading this handbook. We hope that after reading this, you feel empowered and prepared to continue your fight. We want you to know that you have a community behind you as you fight for your liberation. As you have read, labor and union movements in the United States have a long history. The consequences of capitalism have resulted in profits over lives, including our lives. This has been seen in history over and over again by those who fought to obtain labor and union rights. For many people it wasn't easy but it was necessary.

There were many sacrifices made in order to demand change. If we allow ourselves to be complacent right now and wait for those in power, like The GEO Group, to recognize us as humans with rights, it will never happen. There have to be those who courageously take up this challenge at the risk of their own personal safety to say "enough is enough". It is imperative for all of us inside detention to come together, like other leaders have in the past, to demand to be treated with dignity and respect.

Will you stand idly by or will you join in this movement of history in the making?

We leave you with this poem for self-reflection:

it takes courage to raise our voices to demand our freedom in a world lacking compassion,
but lets come together,
uplift,

support,

and encourage each other.
come together to shape a world full of dignity, love and respect for one another.
to fight for a world without cages.
a world where justice heals communities.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR FILING A WAGE CLAIM

- 1) Fill out and submit the “Initial Report or Claim” Form (DLSE Form 1). If you do not understand how to fill out any part of the Form, please read the “Guide to Completing Initial Report or Claim Form” (attached to these Instructions).
 - 2) Along with your completed “Initial Report or Claim” Form, submit these additional DLSE Forms if any of the following situations apply to you:
 - o If your work hours and/or days of work varied or were irregular, and you are claiming unpaid wages (for overtime or non-overtime hours worked) or meal and rest period violations, then also fill out and submit the DLSE Form 55. Fill out the DLSE Form 55 as best as you can, based on your best estimate of hours worked or any of your own records that you kept of your hours worked.
 - o If you are claiming commission pay, then also fill out and submit the DLSE Form 155.
 - o If you are claiming vacation wages, then also fill out and submit the DLSE “Vacation Pay Schedule” form.
 - o If you are represented by an attorney, you may submit a calculation prepared by your attorney in lieu of the above computation forms.
 - 3) Along with your completed “Initial Report or Claim” Form, submit one COPY of the following documents, if you have them (DO NOT SEND ORIGINAL DOCUMENTS):
 - o Time records. Provide a COPY of any of your own records you kept of the hours and dates you worked that you believe support your claim. This could include, for example, your notes, journals, diaries, or calendars in which you marked your hours worked.
 - o Paychecks and Pay Stubs. Provide a COPY of any paychecks and pay stubs you received showing the wages you were paid during your claim period.
 - o Dishonored (or “Bounced”) Paycheck(s). If you were paid with a paycheck that could not be cashed by you because your employer has no account with the bank or insufficient funds in the account from which the check was drawn, provide a COPY of any such dishonored check(s) or other documentation from the bank that indicates the check could not be cashed.
 - o Notice of Employment Information. Provide a COPY if you received a Notice from your employer after January 1, 2012 that indicates your basic employment information including your rate of pay, any overtime rate of pay, whether you were paid by the hour, shift, day, week, salary, piece, commission, or otherwise, and your regular payday. Your employer may have called this a “Notice to Employee” and may reference the Labor Code Section that applies, Section 2810.5.
- NOTE: It is the employer’s legal responsibility to keep accurate employee time and payroll records, and to provide employees with pay stubs each time they are paid (or at least semimonthly). In order to file a claim, you are not required to keep your own time records or to have the documents above. These documents are being requested only if you have them because they may help DLSE better understand your claim.
- 4) If your employment was covered by a union contract, provide a copy of your Collective Bargaining Agreement.

WHAT TO EXPECT AFTER YOU FILE YOUR CLAIM

- 1) Settlement Conference. In most cases, you will receive a Notice from the Labor Commissioner setting a date and time for a “Conference” in which DLSE will discuss your claim with you and whether your claim has a legal basis to proceed. At the Conference, you and your employer will have an opportunity to discuss settlement of your claim. For the Conference, you do NOT need to bring any witnesses, but be prepared to discuss whether you have any witnesses who can testify for you at a hearing, and generally what they will testify about (if your claim does not settle). Bring a copy (not the original) of any document that supports your claim, but do not bring documents you have already submitted with the Initial Report or Claim Form.
- 2) Hearing. If your claim does not settle at the Conference and has a legal basis to proceed to a hearing, you will receive a Notice from the Labor Commissioner setting a date and time for a hearing on your claim. You should be prepared to present evidence to prove your claim (for example, your testimony, the testimony of any witnesses if you have any witnesses, and/or documents if you have supporting documents). Therefore, you should be prepared to bring witnesses and documents if you have them. If you have documents that support your claim, bring the original documents plus two sets of copies to the hearing. At the end of the hearing, the hearing officer will explain what will happen next.

Check the “YES” box if you have filed a retaliation complaint with the Labor Commissioner, and enter the date you filed the complaint. (If your work hours were too irregular to estimate a typical workweek, DO NOT fill out this table, but fill out the DLSE Form 55 instead.) For each day that you worked in your typical workweek, give your best estimate of the times that you started and stopped working, and that you took for an uninterrupted meal period of at least 30 minutes in which you were relieved of all duty.
 - ∞ “DAY 1” is the first day of your workweek, “DAY 2” is the second day of your workweek, and so on. A workweek is any 7 consecutive 24-hour periods, starting with the same calendar day each week, beginning at any hour on any day, so long as it is fixed and regularly recurring. If you do not know what your workweek is and it is not established by your employer, DLSE will use the calendar week starting from 12:01 a.m. on Sunday to midnight on Saturday, with each workday ending at midnight; thus, “DAY 1” of your workweek would be Sunday; “DAY 2” of your workweek would be Monday, and so on.
 - ∞ Time work started and ended. For each day that you worked in your typical workweek, enter the time you typically began and ended your day of work, and check the corresponding box for either “am” or “pm.”
 - ∞ 1st meal period start and end time. For each day that you worked in your typical workweek, if you took an uninterrupted meal period of at least 30 minutes in which you were relieved of all duty, enter the time you typically began and ended your meal period, and check the corresponding box for either “am” or “pm.”
 - ∞ 2nd meal period start and end time. For each day that you worked in your typical workweek, if you took a second uninterrupted meal period of at least 30 minutes in which you were relieved of all duty, enter the time you typically began and ended your meal period, and check the corresponding box for either “am” or “pm.”
 - ∞ ONLY IF YOU WORKED A SPLIT SHIFT. For each day that you worked in your typical workweek, enter the time your 1st shift ended (under “1st Shift ended at”) and check the box for either “am” or “pm.” Then enter the time your 2nd shift began (under “2nd Shift started at”) and check the box for either “am” or “pm.” Example: Your employer scheduled you to work 2 shifts on the same workday, from 8 am to 12 pm, and then from 5 pm to 9 pm. Under “1st Shift ended at” enter “12 pm.” Under “2nd Shift started at” enter “5 pm.” If you did not work a split shift, do not fill out these boxes.

Part 6: Payment of Wages

32. Fixed Amount (“Salaried” Employee)? Check “YES” if you were paid or promised a fixed amount of wages regardless of the number of hours you worked. Then enter how much money you were actually paid, and how frequently (such as per day or every 2 weeks, etc.). If you were promised a different amount, enter that amount, and how frequently you were to be paid.

- 33a. Hourly Pay? Check “YES” if you were paid by the hour. Then enter how much you were actually paid per hour. If you were promised a different hourly pay than you received, also enter that amount.
- b. More than One Hourly Rate? Check “YES” if you were paid or promised various hourly rates, based on your hours worked or different job tasks, then briefly describe your situation. Example: “Paid $10 per hour for 30 hours unloading truck, and $8 per hour for 15 hours checking inventory.”
34. Paid by Piece Rate? Check “YES” if you were paid by piece rate.
35. Paid by Commission? Check “YES” if you received commission pay.

Part 7: Wages, Compensation & Penalties Owed

36. Claim(s) and Amount(s). (NOTE: For claims marked by , attach a separate computation form. For vacation pay, fill out the “Vacation Pay Schedule” form; for commission pay, fill out the DLSE Form 155.)
- ∞ Check the box for each claim you are making, and fill in the claim period and amount earned / claimed.
 - o NOTE: Meal period wages. An employer may not require any employee to work during any meal period mandated by an applicable order of the Industrial Welfare Commission (IWC). If an employer fails to provide an employee with a meal period in accordance with an applicable order of the IWC, a non-exempt employee may seek one additional hour of pay at the employee’s regular rate of compensation for each workday that the meal period is not provided. Under most IWC orders, an employer may not employ any person for a work period of more than five (5) hours without a meal period of not less than 30 minutes, or for a work period of more than ten (10) hours without providing a second meal period of not less than 30 minutes, subject to certain waivers by mutual consent or other exceptions. The employee must be relieved of all duty during the 30-minute meal period. Check the IWC order that applies to you. No matter how many meal periods are missed in one workday, only one meal period premium is imposed for that day.
 - o NOTE: Rest period wages. In general, the IWC orders require employers to authorize and permit non-exempt employees to take rest periods, which insofar as practicable shall be in the middle of each work period. If an employer does not provide an employee a rest period in accordance with an applicable order of the IWC, a non-exempt employee may seek one additional hour of pay at the employee’s regular rate of compensation for each workday that the rest period is not provided. The authorized rest period time shall be based on the total hours worked daily at the rate of ten (10) minutes net rest time per four (4) hours or major fraction thereof. For example, the total amount of rest period time required is 10 minutes if you work more than two hours and up to six hours; 20 minutes if you work more than six hours and up to 10 hours; 30 minutes if you work more than 10 hours and up to 14 hours. However, a rest period does not need to be authorized for employees whose total daily work time is less than three and one-half (3.5) hours. In addition, certain employees are subject to special rest period rules. Check the IWC order that applies to you. Authorized rest period time is counted as hours worked and should not be deducted from wages. No matter how many rest periods are missed in one workday, only one rest period premium is imposed for that day.
 - ∞ Subtotal. Add together all amounts earned/ claimed, and enter this subtotal.
 - ∞ Total Amount Paid. If your employer paid you any compensation relating to your claim(s), enter the total amount paid. For any wages paid, enter the gross amount paid to you.
 - ∞ Grand Total Owed. From the Subtotal of amounts earned/ claimed, subtract the Total Amount Paid.
37. Penalties. Check the box(es) if you are also claiming:
- ∞ Waiting time penalties [Labor Code Section 203]. You may be able to recover waiting time penalties if you were discharged or quit and your employer willfully failed to pay your wages either: at the time you were discharged; at the time of quitting if you gave 72 hours notice; or 72 hours after quitting if you did not give notice. The wages of the employee continue as a penalty from their due date at the same rate until paid or until an action is filed in court. Penalties may continue for up to 30 calendar days and are computed by multiplying the employee’s daily wage rate by the number of days since the payment of wages became due.
 - ∞ Penalties for “bounced” or dishonored checks [Labor Code Section 203.1]. You may be able to recover such penalties if you were paid with a paycheck that could not be cashed by you because your employer has no account with the bank or insufficient funds in the account from which the check was drawn, and you attempted to cash that check within 30 days of receiving it. You may be entitled to recover a penalty of one day’s pay for each day those wages remain unpaid or until an action is commenced, up to 30 calendar days.

INSTRUCCIONES PARA LLENAR UN RECLAMO DE SALARIO

- 1) Llene y presente la forma “Reporte Inicial o Reclamo” (forma 1 DLSE). Si usted no entiende como llenar ninguna de las partes de la forma, por favor lea la “Guía para Completar el Reporte Inicial o la Forma de Reclamo” (adjunta a estas instrucciones).
- 2) Junto con su “Reporte Inicial o Reclamo” completo, presente las Formas DLSE adicionales, si cualquiera de las siguientes situaciones aplican en su caso:
 - o Si sus horas de trabajo y/o días de trabajo variaban o eran irregulares y usted esta reclamando salarios no pagados (por horas extras u horas regulares trabajadas) o por violaciones a su periodo de comida y descanso, entonces también llene y presente la Forma DLSE 55. Llene la Forma DLSE 55 lo mejor que pueda, basado en la mejor estimación de horas trabajadas o cualquiera de sus propios registros que haya guardado de sus horas trabajadas.
 - o Si usted reclama comisiones de pago, entonces también llene y presente la Forma DLSE 155.
 - o Si usted reclama salarios de vacaciones, entonces también llene y presente la forma DLSE “Programa de Pago de Vacaciones”
 - o Si a usted lo representa un abogado, podría presentar un cálculo preparado por su abogado en vez de las formas de cálculo anteriormente mencionadas.
- 3) Junto con su Forma de “Reporte Inicial o Reclamo” completa, presente una COPIA de los siguientes documentos, si usted los tiene (NO MANDE DOCUMENTOS ORIGINALES):
 - o Registros de Tiempo. Proporcione una COPIA de cualquiera de sus propios registros que haya guardado de las horas y fechas que usted trabajó y que usted crea que respalden su reclamo. Esto puede incluir, por ejemplo, sus notas, publicaciones, diarios o calendarios en los cuales usted haya marcado sus horas de trabajo.
 - o Cheques de Pago y Comprobantes de Pago. Proporcione una Copia de cualquiera de los cheques de pago y comprobantes de pago que haya recibido, mostrando los salarios que a usted le pagaban durante su periodo de reclamo.
 - o Cheque de Pago(s) Deshonroso (o “Rebotado”). Si a usted le pagaron con un cheque que no se pudo cobrar, por que su patrón no tiene cuenta con el banco o no tiene fondos suficientes en la cuenta de la cual el cheque fue elaborado, proporcione una COPIA de cualquiera de esos cheques deshonrados u otra documentación del banco, indicando por qué no se pudo cobrar ese cheque.
 - o Aviso de Información de Trabajo. Proporcione una COPIA si usted recibió un Aviso de su patrón después del 1ro de Enero del 2012, que indique su información laboral básica, incluyendo su tarifa de pago, cualquier cantidad de pago por horas extras, ya sea que a usted le pagaron por horas, turno, día, salario semanal, por obra, comisión o de alguna otra manera y su día de pago regular. Su patrón a lo mejor le llamó a esto “Aviso al Empleado” y puede hacer referencia al Código de Sección Laboral que aplica, Sección 2810.05.

NOTA: Es la responsabilidad legal del patrón el de mantener precisos los tiempos del empleado y registros de nómina y proporcionar a los empleados comprobantes de pago cada vez que se les pague (o por lo menos quincenalmente). Para presentar un reclamo, usted no está obligado a mantener sus propios registros de horarios o tener los documentos mencionados anteriormente. Estos documentos han sido pedidos solo si usted los tiene porque podrían ayudar al DLSE a entender mejor su reclamo.

- 4) Si su empleo fué cubierto por medio de un contrato de unión, proporcione una copia de su Acuerdo de Negociación Colectiva.

QUE ESPERAR DESPUÉS DE PRESENTAR SU RECLAMO

- 1) Conferencia de Acuerdo. En la mayoría de los casos, usted recibirá un Aviso del Comisionado de Labor estableciendo el día y hora para una “Conferencia” en la cual la DLSE va a discutir su reclamo con usted y si su reclamo tiene bases legales para proceder. En la Conferencia, usted y su patrón tendrán la oportunidad de discutir un acuerdo para su reclamo. Para la Conferencia usted NO necesita traer ningún testigo, pero esté preparado para discutir si usted tiene algún testigo que pueda testificar por usted en la audiencia, y generalmente acerca de lo que van a testificar (si su reclamo no llega a un acuerdo). Traiga una copia (no el original) de cualquier documento que apoye su reclamo, pero no traiga documentos que ya haya presentado con su Reporte Inicial o Forma de Reclamo.
- 2) Audiencia. Si su reclamo no llega a un acuerdo en la Conferencia y tiene bases legales para proceder a una audiencia, usted recibirá un Aviso del Comisionado de Labor estableciendo una fecha y hora para una audiencia sobre su reclamo. Debe estar preparado para presentar evidencia para probar su reclamo (por ejemplo, su testimonio, el testimonio de cualquier testigo, si es que tiene uno y/o documentación si es que tiene documentos de apoyo). Por lo tanto, debe estar preparado para traer testigos y documentos, si es que cuenta con ellos. Si cuenta con documentos que apoyen su reclamo, traiga los documentos originales más dos juegos de copias a la audiencia. Al final de la audiencia, el oficial de la audiencia le explicará que sucederá después.

30. ¿Usualmente Usted Trabajaba Las Mismas Horas? Marque la casilla que indica si usted usualmente trabajaba las mismas horas y días por semana o en vez usted trabajaba horas y/o días variados o variaban por semana o eran irregulares. Si sus horas de trabajo o días de trabajo eran irregulares y usted está reclamando salarios no pagados (por horas-extras o regulares trabajadas) o violaciones de tiempo de comida o de periodos de descanso, presente la Forma DLSE 55 (Ílénela lo mejor que usted pueda, basado en su mejor cálculo de horas trabajadas o cualquiera de sus propios archivos, que usted haya guardado de sus horas trabajadas).
31. Sus Típicas Horas de Trabajo. Llene esta tabla SOLAMENTE si usted generalmente trabajó el mismo número de horas por semana. (si sus horas de trabajo eran tan irregulares como para calcular una típica semana laboral, NO llene esta tabla, pero si llene La Forma DLSE en vez.) Por cada día que usted trabajó en su típica semana laboral, dé su mejor cálculo de los tiempos en que usted empezaba y terminaba de trabajar y que tomó para un interrumpido periodo de comida de al menos 30 minutos, en los cuales se liberó de todas sus actividades laborales.
 - “DÍA 1” es el primer día de su semana de trabajo, “DÍA 2” es el segundo día de la semana de trabajo y así sucesivamente. Una semana laboral consta de 7 periodos consecutivos de 24-horas, empezando con el mismo día del calendario cada semana, empezando a cualquier hora, en cualquier día, mientras este compuesto y regularmente recurrente. Si usted no sabe cual es su semana laboral y no está establecida por su patrón, la DLSE usará el calendario laboral, empezando desde las 12:01 a.m. del Domingo a la medianoche del Sábado, con cada día de trabajo terminando a la media noche; por lo tanto, el “DÍA 1” de su semana laboral va a ser el Domingo; “DÍA 2” de su semana será el Lunes y así consecutivamente.
 - El Tiempo de Trabajo Empezó y Terminó. Por cada día que usted trabajó en su típica semana laboral, escriba la hora en que usted usualmente empezaba y terminaba su día de trabajo y marque la casilla correspondiente por “am” o “pm”.
 - Comienzo y Final del 1er periodo de comida. Por cada día que usted trabajó en su típica semana laboral, si usted tomó un periodo de comida, de al menos 30 minutos, en el cual usted se liberó de todas las labores, ingrese la hora en que usted usualmente empezaba y terminaba su periodo de comida, y marque las casillas correspondientes de “am” o “pm”.
 - Comienzo y Final del 2do periodo de comida. Por cada día que usted trabajó en su típica semana laboral, si usted tomó un Segundo interrumpido periodo de comida, de al menos 30 minutos, en el cual usted se liberó de todas las labores, escriba la hora en que usualmente usted comenzaba y terminaba su periodo de comida, marque las casillas correspondientes de “am” o “pm”.
 - SOLAMENTE SI TRABAJÓ TURNOS SEPARADOS. Por cada día que usted trabajó en su típica semana laboral, escriba la hora en que su 1er turno terminó (bajo “El 1er Turno terminó a las”) marque la casilla de “am” o “pm.” Después escriba la hora en que su 2do turno comenzó (bajo “El 2do Turno comenzó a las”) marque la casilla de “am” o “pm.” Ejemplo: Su patrón le programó trabajar 2 turnos en el mismo día laboral, de las 8 am a las 12 pm y después de las 5 pm a las 9 pm. Bajo “El 1er Turno terminó a las” escriba “12 pm.” Bajo “El 2do Turno comenzó a las” introduzca “5 pm.” Si usted no trabajó turnos separados, no llene estas casillas.

Parte 6: Pago de Salarios

32. ¿Cantidad Fija (Empleado “Asalariado”)? Marque “SI” si a usted le pagaron o le prometieron una cantidad fija de salarios, sin importar el número de horas que usted trabajó. Después escriba cuánto dinero a usted efectivamente le pagaban, y con que frecuencia (como por ejemplo, por día o cada dos semanas, etc.). Si a usted le prometieron una cantidad diferente, introduzca la cantidad y con qué frecuencia se la iban a pagar.
- 33 a. ¿Pago por Hora? Marque “SI” si a usted le pagaban por hora. Después escriba qué cantidad a usted efectivamente le pagaban por hora. Si a usted le prometieron un pago por hora diferente al que recibió, también escriba esa cantidad.
- b. ¿Más de una Tarifa Por Hora? Marque “SI” si a usted le pagaban o le prometieron varias tarifas por hora, basados en la cantidad de horas trabajadas o en diferentes labores, después brevemente describa su situación. Ejemplo: “Pago de $10 por hora por 30 horas por descargar un camión, y $8 por hora por 15 horas por revisar inventario.”
34. ¿Pago por pieza? Marque “SI” si a usted le pagaban por pieza.
35. ¿Pago por Comisión? Marque “SI” si usted recibía pago por comisión.

Parte 7: Salarios, Compensaciones Y Penalidades Debidas

36. Reclamo(s) y Monto(s). (NOTA: Por reclamos marcados por , adjunte una forma de cálculo separada. Para pago de vacaciones, llene la forma de “Horario de vacaciones pagadas”; pago por comisión, llene la Forma DLSE 155.)
- Revise la casilla por cada reclamo que está haciendo y llene el periodo de reclamo y el monto ganado/reclamado.
 - o NOTA: Salarios de Periodos de Comida. Un patrón no debe exigir que ningún empleado trabaje durante cualquier periodo de comida, mandado por una orden aplicable de la Comisión de Bienestar Industrial (IWC, por sus siglas en inglés). Si un patrón falla en brindar al empleado un periodo de comida de acuerdo a una orden de la IWC, sin excepción el empleado puede pedir una hora adicional de pago bajo la tarifa regular de compensación por cada día de trabajo del periodo de comida que no se le dio al empleado. Bajo la mayoría de las órdenes de la IWC, un patrón no puede contratar a una persona por un periodo de trabajo de 5 horas, sin un periodo de comida de no menos de 30 minutos, o por un periodo de trabajo de mas de 10 horas sin proveerle un segundo periodo de comida de no menos de 30 minutos, sujeto a cierta renuncia por mutuo consentimiento u otras excepciones. El empleado debe ser liberado de todas las actividades laborales durante el periodo de comida de 30 minutos. Revise la orden de la IWC que le aplique a usted. No importa cuantos periodos de comida se pierdan en 1 día laboral, solo una prima de periodo de comida es impuesta por ese día.
 - o NOTA: Salarios de Periodos de Descanso. En general, las ordenes de la IWC requieren a los patrones autorizar y permitir a los empleados periodos de descanso en general, que hasta el momento lo más práctico debe ser a la mitad de la jornada laboral. Si un patrón no le proporciona al empleado un periodo de descanso de acuerdo a una orden aplicable por la IWC, un empleado no exento puede buscar una hora adicional de pago a la tarifa de compensacion regular de pago del empleado por cada dia que este periodo no se le dio. El tiempo de descanso autorizado, deben ser basados en el total de horas trabajadas diariamente, con una tarifa neta de tiempo de descanso de 10 minutos por cada 4 horas o mayor fracción del mismo. Por ejemplo, el total de tiempo de descanso requerido es de 10 minutos si usted trabaja más de 2 horas y hasta 6 horas; 20 minutos si usted trabaja más de 6 horas y hasta 10 horas; 30 minutos si usted trabaja más de 10 horas y hasta 14 horas. Sin embargo, un periodo de descanso no debe ser autorizado a los empleados cuyo día de trabajo laboral sea de 3.5 horas diarias. Además, ciertos empleados están sujetos a reglas especiales del periodo de descanso. Verifique la orden del IWC que le aplique a usted. El resto del tiempo autorizado es contado como horas trabajadas y deben ser deducidos de los salarios. No importa cuantos periodos de descanso se pierdan en 1 día laboral, solo la prima del 1er día de trabajo está impuesta.
 - Subtotal. Sume las cantidades ganadas/reclamadas juntas y escriba este subtotal.
 - Cantidad Total Pagada. Si su patrón le pagó cualquier compensación relativo a su reclamo(s), escriba la cantidad total pagada. Por cualquier salario pagado, escriba el importe bruto pagado a usted.
 - Gran Total debido. Del Subtotal de las cantidades ganadas/reclamadas, reste la Cantidad Total Pagada.
37. Penalizaciones. Marque la casilla(as) si usted también esta reclamando:
- Penalizaciones por Tiempo de Espera [Código del Trabajo Sección 203]. Usted podría recuperar penalizaciones por tiempo de espera si usted fue despedido o renunció y su patrón falló en pagarle sus salarios también: en el momento que fue despedido; en el momento de renunciar, si usted dio una notificación de 72 horas; o 72 horas después de renunciar si usted no dio ninguna notificación. Los salarios de los empleados continúan siendo una penalización desde la fecha de vencimiento, con la misma tarifa hasta que se pague o hasta que haya una acción presentada en la corte. Las penalizaciones pueden continuar hasta 30 días de calendario y son computadas por la multiplicación de la tarifa del salario diario del empleado por el número de días que el pago de salarios venció.
 - Penalizaciones por cheques “rebotados” o deshonorosos [Código del Trabajo Sección 203.1]. Usted podrá recobrar tales penalizaciones si a usted le pagaron con un cheque que no se pudo cobrar, por que su patrón no tiene cuenta con el banco o por que los fondos de la cuenta de la cual el cheque fué girado son insuficientes y usted intentó cobrar ese cheque en los 30 días de haberlo recibido. Usted tendrá derecho a recobrar una penalización de un día de pago, por cada día que esos salarios permanezcan sin pagar o hasta que una acción haya iniciado, hasta 30 días de calendario.

INSTRUCTIONS AND GUIDE FOR FILING A RETALIATION COMPLAINT

Fill out and submit the “Retaliation Complaint” Form (RCI 1). Please read the following Instructions to ensure that you are completing the Form correctly. Please respond fully to all questions. An incomplete Form will result in delayed processing.

WHAT TO EXPECT AFTER YOU FILE YOUR COMPLAINT

- 1) Investigation. In most cases, you will receive a letter from the Labor Commissioner letting you know to whom your complaint has been assigned. After this happens, a deputy will contact you to interview you, and will also most likely interview your witnesses, the employer, and the employer’s witnesses. In addition to the investigation, the deputy may also discuss settlement options with you.
- 2) Conference & Hearing. In some cases, you may be asked to come to an office of the Labor Commissioner for a conference or a hearing. If you receive one of these notices, the deputy will explain what you need to bring with you.
- 3) Determination. After the deputy concludes his or her investigation, he or she will write a report and the Labor Commissioner’s Office will make a decision, known as a determination, on your case. If the decision is in your favor, the Labor Commissioner’s Office will work with the employer to enforce the decision. If the decision is in the favor of the employer, in certain very limited circumstances you may have a right to an appeal, the details of which you will be described in the determination.
- 4) Staying in Touch. It is your responsibility to keep the deputy informed of any address or telephone number changes. If the deputy is unable to locate you, he or she may be forced to close your case.

31. Change at Work. Employers cannot punish employees for making discrimination or harassment complaints or participating in workplace investigations. Punishment doesn't just mean firing or demotion: It can include other negative employment actions, from being denied a raise or a transfer to a more desirable position to missing out on training or mentoring opportunities. What is the change that happened at work that caused you to come file this complaint? Some of the common reasons are termination, suspension, demotion, change in hours, change in pay, discipline, transfer, and termination. Threats of any of the above may also be considered retaliation. If none of the boxes relates to your case, please indicate other and describe the change at work that gives rise to your complaint in the space beside it. Please note the names of any person who took part in the action, such as your employer, manager, or supervisor. Describe briefly what happened. The action taken is often referred to as the "adverse action."
32. a. Why Did the Change at Work Happen? Why did the change, or adverse action, take place? Do you know why your employer took the action you checked off or described in Question 31? Retaliation occurs when an employer punishes an employee for engaging in legally protected activity. For example, getting fired because your employer believes you filed a wage complaint is retaliation, because filing a wage complaint is a legally protected activity. What reason would the employer give to explain the changes you experienced? What right did you exercise, or action did you take? Please describe this clearly.
32. b. Employer Knowledge. How did your employer know or suspect the action you took in Question 32a? Did you tell him? Did someone else? Did your manager or supervisor see it happen or say something to let you know she was aware of your activity in Question 32a? Please describe clearly.

INSTRUCCIONES Y GUÍA PARA PRESENTAR UNA QUEJA SOBRE REPRESALIAS

Llene y presente el Formulario de “Queja sobre represalias” (RCI 1). Por favor lea las instrucciones siguientes para que pueda llenar el Formulario correctamente. Por favor responda a todas las preguntas completamente. Una forma incompleta causará retrasos en el procesamiento.

QUÉ ESPERAR DESPUÉS DE PRESENTAR UNA QUEJA

- 1) Investigación. En la mayoría de los casos, usted recibirá una carta del Comisionado de Labor dándole a conocer a quién se le ha asignado su queja. Luego, un diputado lo contactará para entrevistarle, y también es muy probable que entreviste a sus testigos, al empleador y al testigo del empleador. Además de la investigación, el diputado puede discutir opciones de conciliación con usted.
- 2) Conferencia y audiencia. En algunos casos, se le puede pedir que venga a la División de Enforzamiento de Normas Laborales (DLSE, por sus siglas en inglés) para una conferencia o audiencia. Si recibe una de estas notificaciones, el diputado le explicará qué necesita traer.
- 3) Determinación. Luego que el diputado concluya su investigación, hará un reporte y la DLSE hará cumplir la decisión, conocida como determinación, en su caso. Si la decisión es a favor de usted, la DLSE trabajará con el empleador para hacer cumplir la decisión. Si la decisión es a favor del empleador, usted tendrá el derecho de apelar, de lo cual se le explicará en la determinación.
- 4) Mantenerse en contacto. Es su responsabilidad mantener al diputado informado de los cambios de dirección o número de teléfono. Si el diputado no puede ubicarlo, podrá verse obligado a cerrar su caso.

La represalia ocurre cuando un empleador castiga a un empleado por participar en actividades que tienen amparo legal. Por ejemplo, es una represalia si usted es despedido porque su empleador cree que usted ha presentado una queja sobre salarios, porque la presentación de una queja sobre salarios es una acción amparada por la ley. ¿Qué razón daría el empleador para explicar los cambios que usted experimentó? ¿Qué derecho ejercería o que acción tomaría usted? Por favor explique con claridad.

MEMORANDUM FOR: All Field Office Directors
All Special Agents in Charge
All Chief Counsel

FROM: John Morton
Director

SUBJECT: Prosecutorial Discretion: Certain Victims, Witnesses, and Plaintiffs

Purpose:

This memorandum sets forth agency policy regarding the exercise of prosecutorial discretion in removal cases involving the victims and witnesses of crime, including domestic violence, and individuals involved in non-frivolous efforts related to the protection of their civil rights and liberties. In these cases, ICE officers, special agents, and attorneys should exercise all appropriate prosecutorial discretion to minimize any effect that immigration enforcement may have on the willingness and ability of victims, witnesses, and plaintiffs to call police and pursue justice. This memorandum builds on prior guidance on the handling of cases involving T and U visas and the exercise of prosecutorial discretion.¹

Discussion:

Absent special circumstances or aggravating factors, it is against ICE policy to initiate removal proceedings against an individual known to be the immediate victim or witness to a crime. In practice, the vast majority of state and local law enforcement agencies do not generally arrest victims or witnesses of crime as part of an investigation. However, ICE regularly hears concerns that in some instances a state or local law enforcement officer may arrest and book multiple people at the scene of alleged domestic violence. In these cases, an arrested victim or witness of domestic violence may be booked and fingerprinted and, through the operation of the Secure ¹ For a thorough explanation of prosecutorial discretion, see the following: Memorandum from Peter S. Vincent, Principal Legal Advisor, Guidance Regarding U Nonimmigrant Status (U visa) Applicants in Removal Proceedings or with Final Orders of Deportation or Removal (Sept. 25, 2009); Memorandum from William J. Howard, Principal Legal Advisor, VAWA 2005 Amendments to Immigration and Nationality Act and 8 U.S.C. § 1367 (Feb. 1, 2007); Memorandum from Julie L. Myers, Assistant Secretary of ICE, Prosecutorial and Custody Discretion (Nov. 7, 2007); Memorandum from William J. Howard, Principal Legal Advisor, Prosecutorial Discretion (Oct. 24, 2005); Memorandum from Doris Meissner, Commissioner, Immigration and Naturalization Service, Exercising Prosecutorial Discretion (Nov. 17, 2000).

Communities program or another ICE enforcement program, may come to the attention of ICE. Absent special circumstances, it is similarly against ICE policy to remove individuals in the midst of a legitimate effort to protect their civil rights or civil liberties.

To avoid deterring individuals from reporting crimes and from pursuing actions to protect their civil rights, ICE officers, special agents, and attorneys are reminded to exercise all appropriate discretion on a case-by-case basis when making detention and enforcement decisions in the cases of victims of crime, witnesses to crime, and individuals pursuing legitimate civil rights complaints. Particular attention should be paid to:

- victims of domestic violence, human trafficking, or other serious crimes;
- witnesses involved in pending criminal investigations or prosecutions;
- plaintiffs in non-frivolous lawsuits regarding civil rights or liberties violations; and
- individuals engaging in a protected activity related to civil or other rights (for example, union organizing or complaining to authorities about employment discrimination or housing conditions) who may be in a non-frivolous dispute with an employer, landlord, or contractor.

In deciding whether or not to exercise discretion, ICE officers, agents, and attorneys should consider all serious adverse factors. Those factors include national security concerns or evidence the alien has a serious criminal history, is involved in a serious crime, or poses a threat to public safety. Other adverse factors include evidence the alien is a human rights violator or has engaged in significant immigration fraud. In the absence of these or other serious adverse factors, exercising favorable discretion, such as release from detention and deferral or a stay of removal generally, will be appropriate. Discretion may also take different forms and extend to decisions to place or withdraw a detainer, to issue a Notice to Appear, to detain or release an alien, to grant a stay or deferral of removal, to seek termination of proceedings, or to join a motion to administratively close a case.

In addition to exercising prosecutorial discretion on a case-by-case basis in these scenarios, ICE officers, agents, and attorneys are reminded of the existing provisions of the Trafficking Victims Protection Act (TVPA),² its subsequent reauthorization,³ and the Violence Against Women Act (VAWA).⁴ These provide several protections for the victims of crime and include specific provisions for victims of domestic violence, victims of certain other crimes,⁵ and victims of human trafficking.

a result of domestic violence, sexual assault, trafficking, and other certain crimes.⁷ A T nonimmigrant visa provides legal status to victims of severe forms of trafficking who assist law enforcement in the investigation and/or prosecution of human trafficking cases.⁸ ICE has important existing guidance regarding the exercise of discretion in these cases that remains in effect. Please review it and apply as appropriate.⁹

Please also be advised that a flag now exists in the Central Index System (CIS) to identify those victims of domestic violence, trafficking, or other crimes who already have filed for, or have been granted, victim-based immigration relief. These cases are reflected with a Class of Admission Code "384." When officers or agents see this flag, they are encouraged to contact the local ICE Office of Chief Counsel, especially in light of the confidentiality provisions set forth at 8 U.S.C. § 1367.

ERO Assistant Field Office Director

Re: Request for Release under ICE Prosecutorial Discretion Guidance on Victims, Witnesses, Participants, and Plaintiffs in Protected Civil Rights Activities

I am writing to request that I be released from ICE custody pursuant to ICE's guidance on prosecutorial discretion for certain victims, witnesses, and plaintiffs, because I have engaged in protected activity related to my civil rights.

On June 17, 2011, John Morton, ICE Director, issued the memorandum "Prosecutorial Discretion: Certain Victims, Witnesses, and Plaintiffs" (hereinafter "Morton Memo").¹ The Morton Memo states that ICE should "exercise all appropriate discretion on a case-by-case basis when making detention and enforcement decisions in the cases" of those pursuing civil rights complaints. The memo further states that "particular attention should be paid" to "plaintiffs in non-frivolous lawsuits regarding civil rights or liberties violations" and "individuals engaging in a protected activity related to civil or other right" related to a dispute with an employer or contractor. Recent lawsuits and their successes against GEO Group in California and Washington are evidence of the non-frivolous nature of such cases.²

As detailed below, my involvement in a civil rights lawsuit and/or other protected civil rights activity, including protesting labor violations by my employer, GEO Group, places me within the Morton Memo's priority categories for discretion.

In addition, I am not a national security risk or a border security risk. I am also not a public security risk for the reasons below.

Finally, I believe that my release is in the public interest for the reasons below.

² State v. GEO was brought by the Washington Attorney General on behalf of detained immigrants at GEO's Northwest facility. In November 2021, a jury found for the plaintiffs, and GEO Group was ordered to pay $17.3 million in back pay for workers and $5.3 million in unjust enrichment gained through using $1-a-day labor. The California lawsuit, Novoa v. GEO, was brought on behalf of detained workers at GEO's Adelanto facility. In January 2022, a federal judge issued a preliminary decision finding that detained workers in Adelanto's Voluntary Work Program are employees under CA law, including CA's minimum wage law. Order on Motions for Partial Summary Judgment, Raul Novoa, et. al. v. GEO Group, Case no. EDCV 17-2514 JGB (C.D. Cal., Jan. 25, 2022). Another recently filed case in California, Hernandez Gomez v. Geo Group, Case No. 1:22-at-00532 (ED. Cal., July 13, 2022), seeks to hold GEO Group accountable for numerous serious civil rights violations related to its Voluntary Work Program, including forced labor and failure to pay minimum wage as required under California law.

Process for Requesting Department of Labor Support for Requests to the Department of Homeland Security for Immigration-Related Prosecutorial Discretion During Labor Disputes

Frequently Asked Questions For Workers and Their Representatives

1. Does the Department of Labor take requests to express support for immigration-related prosecutorial discretion for workers involved in labor disputes?

Yes. We consider such requests on a case-by-case basis. Particularly because the Department of Labor (“DOL” or “Department”) does not inquire into immigration status as part of DOL investigations or proceedings, DOL remains open to requests from workers to express DOL support for their requests to the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) seeking immigration-related prosecutorial discretion. For DOL to effectuate the laws under its jurisdiction, regardless of immigration status, workers must feel free to participate in the Department’s investigations and proceedings without fear of retaliation or immigration-related consequences.

DOL’s mission and effective enforcement depends on the cooperation of workers. However, vulnerable workers who lack work authorization or sufficiently “portable” immigration status are often reluctant to report violations, engage with government enforcement agencies, or otherwise exercise their rights. For example, undocumented workers who experience labor law violations may fear that cooperating with an investigation will result in the disclosure of their immigration status or that of family members, or that it will result in immigration-based retaliation from their employers and adverse immigration consequences for themselves or their family. As a result, both workers and the Department face barriers to equitable and effective enforcement of workplace rights and protections, and the many employers that adhere to labor and employment laws face unfair competition.

DOL has long supported prosecutorial discretion on a case-by-case basis, to further enforcement of laws within DOL’s jurisdiction.

This document clarifies the Department’s process for workers and their representatives to request DOL’s support for DHS to exercise prosecutorial discretion on a case-by-case basis to strengthen DOL’s enforcement and worker protection efforts.

2. How do I ask DOL to notify DHS about a labor dispute with my employer and support my request that DHS exercise immigration-related prosecutorial discretion?

Workers who are experiencing a labor dispute at their worksite can notify DOL of the labor dispute and request that DOL submit a “Statement of DOL Interest” in support of a request to DHS for immigration-related prosecutorial discretion. Requesters should send the request to statementrequests@dol.gov with the subject line “Request for Statement of DOL Interest.” In the emailed request, requesters are encouraged to provide enough information for the Department to identify the worksite that is the subject of the labor dispute.

Additionally, requesters are invited to include facts that support any factors listed in FAQ #3 that DOL may consider in responding to these requests, including but not limited to:

- A description of the labor dispute and how it is related to the laws enforced by DOL;
- A description of any retaliation or threats workers at the worksite may have witnessed or experienced related to labor disputes; and
- A description of how fear among workers at the worksite of potential immigration-related retaliation or other immigration enforcement in the future is likely to deter workers from reporting violations related to the labor dispute to DOL or otherwise cooperating with DOL. As relevant, please specify the time, place, and manner of any such facts.

DOL may contact the requester with questions or for additional information necessary to evaluate the request, so it will be helpful to include reliable contact information for the requester. A request may be made by a worker or by an advocate or representative. Requests may be made on behalf of a group of workers.

NOTE: DOL will evaluate requests to determine whether a labor dispute related to a law enforced by DOL exists at a particular worksite and whether and how immigration-related prosecutorial discretion for workers at the worksite would help DOL carry out its enforcement mission and priorities. For more information, see FAQ #3. Disclosure of individual worker names may not be necessary to establish that a labor dispute exists, depending on, for instance, DOL's additional corroborating information.

In the emailed request, requesters should not disclose:

- Individual workers' particular immigration histories or needs;
- Sensitive personally identifiable information, including dates of birth, Social Security Numbers, or Alien Registration Numbers.

Questions about the process outlined above may also be directed to statementrequests@dol.gov before a request is submitted.

3. What factors will the Department consider when deciding whether to provide a Statement of DOL Interest in a worksite's labor dispute?

DOL will assess each request on a case-by-case basis and in consideration of its specific enforcement needs. Factors that may be considered include, but are not limited to:

- DOL's need for witnesses to participate in its investigation and/or possible enforcement;
- Whether DHS's use of immigration-related prosecutorial discretion would support DOL's interest in holding labor law violators accountable for such violations;
- Whether workers are experiencing retaliation, threats of retaliation, or fear retaliation and/or may be "chilled" from reporting violations of the law or participating in DOL enforcement;
- Whether immigration enforcement concerning workers who may be witnesses to or victims of a violation of laws within DOL's jurisdiction could impede DOL's ability to enforce the labor laws or provide all available remedies within its jurisdiction;
- Likelihood that immigration enforcement could be an instrument used to undermine DOL's enforcement of laws in the geographic area or industry and/or give rise to further immigration-based retaliation.

The Department will weigh factors listed above based on the specific circumstances of the labor dispute. DOL may contact the requester with questions or for additional information necessary to evaluate the request.

4. After I submit my request to DOL for a “Statement of DOL Interest” in a labor dispute, what will DOL do?

DOL will determine whether its enforcement interests justify support for a request of prosecutorial discretion by DHS. If so, and in its discretion, DOL may send both DHS and the requester a Statement of DOL Interest informing DHS that DOL believes DHS’s use of its prosecutorial discretion for employees at a particular worksite is necessary for DOL to effectively carry out its mission, and that therefore it supports workers’ requests for immigration-related prosecutorial discretion.

For example, where workers have faced retaliation for complaining about their wages or working conditions, and fear retaliatory immigration action if they participate in a DOL investigation or legal proceeding, DHS’s use of prosecutorial discretion may help to alleviate that fear and further DOL’s investigation or enforcement action. Worker participation strengthens DOL’s ability to obtain redress and employer compliance.

5. How do individual workers who experience a labor dispute ask DHS to exercise its immigration-related prosecutorial discretion in their case?

Workers seeking immigration-related prosecutorial discretion from DHS must make such requests directly to DHS. This FAQ provides information about how a worker could seek a Statement of DOL Interest regarding a labor dispute involving their employer. A worker may wish to first seek a Statement of DOL Interest from DOL and then include it as part of a request to DHS asking for the exercise of prosecutorial discretion in their case.

NOTE: Workers may have additional bases for requesting DHS’s exercise of prosecutorial discretion that are not addressed in this FAQ. For more information, you may wish to seek immigration legal advice. For a list of pro bono legal service providers visit: <https://www.justice.gov/eoir/list-pro-bono-legal-service-providers>. A specific outcome for any individual worker cannot be guaranteed; each worker should consider seeking counsel to better understand the individual implications of submitting a request for the use of prosecutorial discretion to DHS.

6. Does a Statement of DOL Interest in a worksite’s labor dispute convey any immigration status or protection to a worker?

No. A Statement of DOL Interest in a labor dispute does not confer immigration status, nor any specific immigration protection, to individual workers. Instead, individual workers may choose to include the Statement of DOL Interest as part of a request directed to DHS that asks DHS to use its prosecutorial discretion.

7. Does the Statement of DOL Interest guarantee that DHS will use immigration-related prosecutorial discretion in a particular case?

No. The decision of whether to exercise immigration-related prosecutorial discretion rests solely with DHS. Support for prosecutorial discretion from DOL does not guarantee that DHS will exercise prosecutorial discretion favorably in any individual case. Individual workers must independently request that DHS exercise its prosecutorial discretion in favor of their request.

8. Which agencies within the Department will consider issuing a Statement of DOL Interest concerning immigration-related prosecutorial discretion?

DOL will currently consider requests for Statements of DOL Interest related to enforcement of laws within the jurisdiction of the Wage and Hour Division (WHD), the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA), the Office of Federal Contract Compliance Programs (OFCCP), and the Office of Labor-Management Standards (OLMS).

9. Will DOL keep the information contained in my request confidential?

In keeping with DOL's standard practices, to the maximum extent permitted by law, DOL will keep requests for a Statement of DOL Interest confidential. DOL will share Statements of DOL Interest with DHS, but such Statements typically will not contain any personally identifiable information of any individual without their prior permission and notification.

10. How long does the Department expect it will take to respond to these requests?

The Department will endeavor to respond to the requester within 30 days with a determination on the request or a status update. DOL will seek to provide status updates every 30 days after a request remains under consideration.

11. What should a requester expect if the Department declines to provide a Statement of DOL interest in a worksite's labor dispute?

If DOL decides not to provide a Statement of DOL Interest in a labor dispute, the requester or their representative will be informed of the decision as soon as possible. Statements of DOL Interest are wholly discretionary.

If the Department decides not to provide a Statement of DOL Interest in a labor dispute, DOL will not communicate with DHS about the request. DOL does not enforce worksite immigration law and will seek to enforce the relevant laws within its jurisdiction regardless of workers' immigration status.

12. What role does DOL play in DHS's adjudication of an individual worker's request for DHS's use of immigration-related prosecutorial discretion?

The decision about whether to use immigration-related prosecutorial discretion rests solely with DHS. DOL or other law enforcement agencies may inform DHS of a need for immigration enforcement discretion to carry out their missions and may respond to requests for additional information from DHS regarding requests for immigration enforcement discretion.

13. What if I want to add additional information to my initial request to DOL for a Statement of DOL Interest?

Information about the request generally may be supplemented as needed by the requester using the email address provided above.

14. Where can I get more information about whether I should request a Statement of DOL Interest and/or seek DHS's use of immigration-related prosecutorial discretion?

You may wish to seek immigration law advice before deciding whether to request a Statement of DOL Interest or whether to submit a request for the use of prosecutorial discretion to DHS. For a list of pro bono legal service providers visit: <https://www.justice.gov/eoir/list-pro-bono-legal-service-providers>. A specific outcome for any individual worker cannot be guaranteed; each worker should consider seeking counsel to better understand the individual implications of submitting a request for the use of prosecutorial discretion to DHS.

15. Can DOL provide a Statement of DOL Interest in a labor dispute to DHS without receiving a request for such a statement?

Yes. Where appropriate, the Department issues Statements of DOL Interest or similar requests regarding a worksite's labor dispute on its own without receiving a request to further the enforcement of its own laws.

Detained Immigrant Workers Formally Announce Labor Strike

Labor strikers issue demands for private prison operator to fulfill

BAKERSFIELD, CA – Today is the 40th day since the individuals detained at the Mesa Verde ICE Detention Facility have been on a labor strike. This is the second labor strike launched within eight months at the facility owned and operated by The GEO Group. Workers enrolled in the “voluntary work program” – who earn $1 per day to clean the dormitories – coordinated a work stoppage due to the unsanitary and unsafe conditions the private prison operator has subjected them to throughout the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic.

“We don’t understand the hypocrisy: outside of detention we’re not allowed to work because of our immigration status, and here we’re told we can work but they only pay us $1 a day. We feel they’re taking advantage of us and our situation,” said a labor striker inside Mesa Verde. The labor strike is inspired by the mass labor movement and worker unionization taking place across the country, where workers are demanding a living wage, better working conditions, and better worker treatment.

Labor strikers in immigrant detention call on supporters to help amplify their demands:

Detainee treatment: That all individuals detained are treated with respect and dignity by all Mesa Verde officers;

Voluntary Worker Program: That the number of volunteer workers increase to 12 and the worker salary be in accordance with CA Labor Law minimum wage of $15 per hour;

Facility issued linen and clothing: Per Performance Based National Detention Standards (PBNDS), detained individuals “shall be issued clean clothing, climatically suitable and presentable.” We’re constantly being issued old, torn and unserviceable or indelibly stained linen and clothing. We request this practice to cease. Furthermore, climatically suitable clothing issued: 1) shorts for the summer and 2) sweatpants and wool blankets for winter. Three days of laundry for jumpsuits and an extra pair of shoes to use for the recreational yard.

Personal Hygiene Items: We request hygienic supplies including razors that don’t give razor burns, irritation or cuts to skin (preferably double-blade), shaving cream, deodorant, dental flossers and better quality toothbrushes.

Food Service: We request that hot water be available during all meals. Per PBNDS “better quality food, proportioned servings, food (meals) cooked properly,” more access to and properly washed fruit given at every meal.

Maintenance: Per PBNDS, “safe potable water shall be available throughout the facility”. We request that maintenance to fix and sustain livable conditions in the facility.

Visitation: In accordance with the announcement by ICE regarding a new visitation guidance, we urge a full fledge and reinstatement of in-person visitation at the MV facility just like at GSA, by June 16, 2022. In addition, we request that free virtual visitation be made available so each person at MV has an equal opportunity to see their family members, friends and loved ones.

Health Care: We request that proper health care be provided by MV to all detained individuals, e.g. hire a doctor to be on site and not shared with another facility, to be referred to outside specialists promptly, and offer preventative health care like providing sunscreen in the summer.

Requests to convene a meeting with the facility administrator has been met with hostility, nonetheless, the labor strikers welcome open negotiations with The GEO Group.

Many participants in the “volunteer worker program” rely on the $1 per day compensation to call their family members and loved ones or purchase items in commissary, which are often expired or moldy, as a new report has found. A fundraiser has been launched to support the labor strikers’ efforts.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Golden State Annex Price-Gouging Initiates Labor Strike

Inedible food in commissary marked-up and heavily taxed

MCFARLAND, CA – Immigrant workers detained at the Golden State Annex (GSA) issued the following statement due to the exorbitant cost of commissary items that are often sold past expiration date, and are now being heavily taxed without advanced notice:

“We are individuals detained at the Golden State Annex. We might be detained here due to our civil immigration matters, however, we are also workers inside this facility. Many of us participate in the “volunteer worker program” to lift some of the financial burden our families must deal with due to the extremely high cost of phone calls and commissary items. We are being exploited for our labor and are paid $1 per day to clean the dormitories. Meanwhile, private prison corporations like The GEO Group receive tens of millions each year to accommodate us detained in ICE custody.

The food that is provided to us at GSA lacks any level of nutritional value. In fact, we are consistently served spoiled milk and inedible food with foreign objects found in them, as a new report has found. Those of us who get food at the dining hall last are regularly served watered down food because the facility allegedly ran out. GSA is well-aware that many of us rely on the $1 we earn to purchase items from the commissary to supplement our daily diets as well as make phone calls to our families and loved ones. The commissary items, such as tortillas, Honey Buns, chips, and meat pouches, are not nutritious. The worst part is they are sold past their expiration date, as evident by the mold that grows on the items and their stale flavor.

If this was not enough, GSA increased both prices and taxes on items that we buy frequently without advanced notice. We buy commissary once a week and GSA is pretty much taking a week's worth of pay in taxes per order. Are the millions of taxpayer dollars and profits not enough for The GEO Group? This is a clear sign of exploitation and cruel treatment of every individual at this facility.

Lastly, we stand in solidarity with the workers detained at the Mesa Verde ICE Processing Center who are on their 50th day of strike protesting the unsanitary conditions the facility puts them through, especially during the ongoing pandemic, a situation many of us here also experienced. These are not isolated events as The GEO Group has made clear that their priorities lie in profits over people, a business model that inherently violates human rights to increase profit margin.

We will be on strike until the facility eliminates the commissary tax, provides a variety of items that are not expired, and reduces prices on popular items.”

Immigrant detainee workers strike at California detention centers to protest low pay and hazardous conditions

Max Jones

⌚ 29 June 2022

Immigrant detainee workers are on strike in at least two California immigrant prisons, after mounting violations and labor abuses, according to reports received by Northern California Public Radio Station KQED, which received information about the strike directly from detainees.

Unsafe working conditions and heinously low wages have propelled the strike. Workers, who are defined as “housing porters,” reported cleaning bathrooms and dormitories for the nominal wage of $1 a day, despite the $15 an hour minimum wage in California.

The two private federal immigrant detention centers in California where the strikes are occurring are operated by the GEO Group, Inc., one of the largest private prison corporations in the United States.

According to statements from detainees to KQED, the migrants in Golden State Annex in McFarland (near Bakersfield in Central California) have been striking since June 6 and in the Mesa Verde Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) Processing Center in Bakersfield since April 28. They are demanding to be paid the minimum wage, as well as sanitary and safe working conditions.

Strikers at Golden State Annex noted in their statement, “We are being exploited for our labor and are being paid $1 per day to clean the dormitories. ... Meanwhile, private prison corporations like The GEO Group receive tens of millions each year to accommodate us detained in ICE custody.”

The GEO is a sprawling international corporation raking in a revenue of $551 million in the first quarter of 2022 and operates security facilities in the US, United Kingdom, Australia and South Africa, according to its own website.

These labor strikes are happening as California’s Division of Occupational Safety and Health, also known as Cal/OSHA, is investigating the unsanitary conditions at the Golden State Annex in McFarland due to a complaint filed by the California Collaborative for Immigrant Justice last month on behalf of seven detainees. The complaint accuses GEO of maintaining unsafe facilities, with large spots of black mold in the showers and black fibrous dust particles pushed into the dormitory’s air through HVAC vents.

Mold spores in the air can cause asthma, allergic rhinitis, eczema, respiratory infections such as bronchitis and more, according to the California Department of Health. Doctors for one of the seven detainees in the complaint, Vladimir, discovered a spot on his lung through an X-ray. He told KQED,

“I am afraid because my lung has been impacted. I have problems breathing. ... The dust and mold are bad for our health, and unfortunately, we are in a place where it feels that they don’t care about our health.”

GEO has replied to the workers’ protest by denying there is a strike at either facility, telling KQED, “Choosing not to participate in a voluntary program cannot constitute a labor strike.” This claim shows the corporation’s unwillingness to even acknowledge the grievances of their exploited labor force or even the most rudimentary of workers’ rights.

While GEO is given millions of dollars from the US government to barbarically detain immigrants, they exploit the cheap labor of these immigrants and force them to return their paltry wages for basic necessities that are marked up in prison commissaries. Akin to a company store, this cycle can only be compared to forced labor.

COVID-19 has ripped through jails and prisons for migrants and non-migrants alike across the country throughout the pandemic, highlighting the disregard for human life by the ruling class. Like all the other state-run and for-profit facilities, GEO has flagrantly deprived detainees of basic safety measures during the pandemic, with more than half of all detainees at the Mesa Verde ICE Processing Facility in Bakersfield testing positive for COVID-19 in 2020 due to lack of safety measures, resulting in a class action lawsuit that earned the victims settlements, according to the Bakersfield Californian.

Seeking to tamp down popular anger sparked by the exposure of these conditions, President Joe Biden signed an executive order barring the Department of Justice from renewing contracts with for-profit prisons. This resulted in private prison corporations such as GEO shifting more attention and resources to immigration detention facilities which do not fall under the ban.

The GEO and the private prison industry have spent considerable amounts of capital on politicians who enact policies that result in more immigrants getting detained and, therefore, guarantee more profits for the corporation.

According to the National Immigration Justice Center, ICE’s more than 200 immigrant detention centers were given $3 billion for maintenance by Congress in 2021. Between January 2017 and April 2020, 39 adults died in ICE custody or quickly after being released.

Prison labor is a sizeable economic force in the United States. A June 15 report by the ACLU revealed that prison workers produced $11 billion worth of goods and services annually, with compensation ranging between a punishing 13 cents to 52 cents per hour. More than half of this wage is spent by prisoners on hygiene products and medical care. Of the prisoners polled, 70 percent said they could not afford basic necessities, and 76 percent said they work under the threat of punishment. Prison workers in Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, South Carolina and Texas do most of their work without any compensation at all.

The inhuman conditions in federal prisons have also sparked a hunger strike by 80 inmates at the federal prison in Sheridan, Oregon, according to federal public defender Lisa Hay. She claims that inmates should be released due to inhumane conditions that are unconstitutional. At least six inmates have died in the Federal Correctional Institution in Sheridan since March 2020, allegedly not due to COVID-19.

The dangerous conditions forced upon immigrants and refugees, caused by the policies enacted by Democrats and Republicans and currently enforced by the Biden administration, have resulted in repeated tragedies and reflect a deep hostility to the working class. The Biden administration has continued Donald Trump's "Remain in Mexico" policy and has arrested more immigrants in 2021 than any single year of the Trump presidency.

On June 27, at least 51 undocumented immigrants died crammed into a truck in 103 degree Fahrenheit temperatures in San Antonio, Texas, trying to avoid the Border Patrol and to escape the conditions of their home countries resulting from the intervention of US imperialism.

This comes just a few days after Spanish and Moroccan police took the lives of 37 refugees and injured hundreds attempting to cross the Moroccan border into the Spanish exclave of Melilla. The massacre took place right before a NATO summit held in Madrid, where the PSOE/Podemos government demanded that NATO consider migration as a "hybrid threat," in order to justify stepped-up repression of refugees and imperialist actions in Africa.

On June 13 it was announced that the U.S. Supreme Court had ruled in favor of the Biden administration's challenge of the three lower court rulings that entitled non-citizens to a potential bail hearing while waiting for their objections to deportation to be resolved. These reactionary rulings will result in countless immigrants, who are no threat to society and pose no risk of fleeing, to be trapped and incarcerated, while private corporations exploit their labor through force.

Earlier this June, Australia's Home Affairs Minister Clare O'Neil went to Sri Lanka to demand that President Gotabaya Rajapakse's despised regime stop desperate asylum seekers from leaving their home country, showing the anti-refugee sentiments of the ruling class in Australia.

In 2021, a record 86 million people were estimated to have been forcibly displaced from their homes, a testament to the impact of imperialism and income inequality around the world. The capitalist ruling elite in every country reacts to this reality with disregard for human rights and hostility to the working class through increased measures of oppression against immigrants and refugees.

The militarization of the US-Mexico border and the crackdown on basic human rights for immigrants do not speak to the strength of US imperialism but its weakness and desperation. The working class is an international class and must unite across capitalist borders in order to fight these atrocities and uphold the right of workers to live and work where they please, free from harassment and repression.

Dozens of immigrants who clean dormitories and bathrooms for just $1 a day while locked up at federal detention centers in California are waging a labor strike.

The detainees, who are being held at two privately run facilities in the Bakersfield area as they fight deportation, have been protesting compensation well below the state's $15/hour minimum wage for weeks. These workers, known as "housing porters," are also demanding the private operator of these facilities address alleged hazardous conditions, inedible food and other issues.

'We are being exploited for our labor and are being paid $1 per day to clean the dormitories. Meanwhile, private prison corporations like The GEO Group receive tens of millions each year to accommodate us detained in ICE custody.'

—Statement from Golden State Annex strikers

Both of the U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement facilities facing a work stoppage — Golden State Annex in McFarland since June 6 and the Mesa Verde ICE Processing Center in Bakersfield for 55 days, according to immigrant advocates — are operated by The GEO Group, one of the largest for-profit prison companies in the U.S.

"We are being exploited for our labor and are being paid $1 per day to clean the dormitories," strikers at Golden State Annex said in a statement released last week. "Meanwhile, private prison corporations like The GEO Group receive tens of millions each year to accommodate us detained in ICE custody."

Many detainees participate in the volunteer working program to afford what they say are high-cost phone calls and commissary items such as dental floss and tortillas.

GEO, which runs four out of seven active immigration detention centers in California, reported total revenues of $551 million in the first quarter of 2022. The Florida-based company also operates secure facilities in the United Kingdom, Australia and South Africa.

State regulators launch investigation

The labor strikes come as California's Division of Occupational Safety and Health, also known as Cal/OSHA, is investigating conditions for workers detained at Golden State Annex, in response to a complaint alleging serious violations at the facility.

The complaint to Cal/OSHA, which was filed by the California Collaborative for Immigrant Justice last month on behalf of seven detainees, charges that they work and live in a toxic environment that includes black mold patches up to 10 inches wide in the showers, and black fibrous dust particles that HVAC vents spew into the dormitories.

The company has also allegedly failed to provide these workers with proper protective equipment, cleaning materials and training on how to handle mold-infested areas, according to the complaint.

"The environment here is very, very unsanitary," said Garcia, one of the housing porters who complained to state regulators. "The mold in the showers... is very dangerous, we shouldn't be cleaning there. We've raised the issue countless times with the administration with no result, no solution."

'The environment here is very, very unsanitary. The mold in the showers... is very dangerous, we shouldn't be cleaning there. We've raised the issue countless times with the administration with no result, no solution.'

—Housing Porter Garcia

KQED is not using the full names of complainants, who have requested anonymity from Cal/OSHA during its investigation because they fear retaliation during detention.

The agency, which declined to comment on its inspection, has six months to issue citations if any violations are found.

A California bill enacted last year, AB 263, clarifies that private operators of immigrant detention centers must follow all state occupational health and safety regulations and public health orders.

Vladimir, who was included in the complaint, said he developed a persistent cough and shortness of breath while working at Golden State Annex. He said X-ray images revealed a dark spot in one of his lungs, but it remains undiagnosed. He fears it is connected to exposure to mold.

Breathing mold spores can lead to asthma, respiratory infections, cough and difficulty breathing, according to the California Department of Public Health.

“I am afraid because my lung has been impacted. I have problems breathing,” the father of five said in Spanish. “The dust and mold are bad for our health and unfortunately, we are in a place where it feels that they don’t care about our health.”

The GEO Group responds

A spokesperson for GEO said the company strongly rejects the allegations while also denying a strike is taking place.

“Our ICE Processing Centers, including the Golden State Annex, are maintained in accordance with all applicable federal sanitation standards, with or without the contributions of Voluntary Work Program participants,” the spokesman said in a statement. “Choosing not to participate in a voluntary program cannot constitute a labor strike.”

‘We want California to use its authority to protect the health and safety of these workers. And that means going in to inspect the facility. And we want them to take appropriate action, be that fines, be that requiring GEO to address some of these issues.’”

—Legal Director Lisa Knox, California Collaborative for Immigrant Justice

The company also rejected the allegation that Golden State Annex has not adequately implemented COVID-19 protections required for employers in California. State rules include notifying employees within one business day if they were exposed to an infected person, and training workers on the employer’s policies to protect them from virus hazards.

Attorney Lisa Knox, who helped detainees submit the Cal/OSHA complaint, said GEO’s health and safety record shows the company can’t be trusted to fix current problems at detention centers on its own.

“We want California to use its authority to protect the health and safety of these workers. And that means going in to inspect the facility,” said Knox, legal director at the California Collaborative for Immigrant Justice. “And we want them to take appropriate action, be that fines, be that requiring GEO to address some of these issues.”

Knox and other advocates have requested that California’s attorney general investigate additional potential labor issues at the detention center, such as minimum wage violations.

A spokesperson for California Attorney General Rob Bonta's Office said the office is reviewing that request, but declined to comment further.

"To protect its integrity, we're unable to comment on a potential or ongoing investigation," the spokesperson wrote in an email.

A federal judge in Riverside ruled earlier this year that detainees working at another GEO-run facility in Southern California are considered employees under state law, Knox said.

Is it wage theft? Dispute playing out in other states

Last fall, a federal judge in Washington state ordered GEO to pay $23.2 million for failing to pay minimum wage to immigrant detainees who volunteered to cook and clean for $1 a day while held at a facility in Tacoma. The lawsuit was brought by Washington state's attorney general and other plaintiffs.

GEO responded to the ruling by reportedly closing its worker program at the Tacoma detention center. The company is seeking to reverse the judge's order before the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, arguing that states lack the authority to dictate how much to pay detainees because the work program they volunteer for is established by the federal government and is paid for by federal dollars.

Last month, Bonta joined more than a dozen other attorney generals to support the state of Washington in the ongoing lawsuit against GEO.

“Washington’s Minimum Wage Act advances the important public interest states have in protecting their workers and the broader community from the economic burdens that result from unscrupulous and exploitative employment practices,” according to the brief filed with the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals last month.

Cal/OSHA has inspected at least one other immigration detention center in the state for worksite violations. After a guard at the Otay Mesa Detention Center in San Diego died of COVID-19 last year, the agency fined the facility’s operator, CoreCivic Inc., more than $23,000 for, in part, failing to meet reporting requirements about the death, according to agency records. CoreCivic contested the fines, and the case remains open.

Immigrant advocates say Cal/OSHA’s inspection of Golden State Annex is the first in California to be prompted by a complaint on behalf of detained workers.

In 2018 and 2019 I had the opportunity to take part in two statewide teacher strikes. Together, my coworkers and I won a raise, stopped cuts to our state healthcare plan, and won educational protections for public school students across West Virginia. These experiences left me with a deep understanding that all workers must have the same right to peacefully withhold their labor and demand human dignity on the job.

Incarcerated workers are no exception. Although you face added challenges, your fight for better pay and working conditions is in line with a long history of teachers, nurses, farm workers, UPS drivers, and countless other workers striking and winning in this country. I stand with you as you continue this worthy effort.
